WILSON IS HAILED AS PARTY LEADER

New Jersey Governor Given Warm Welcome in His Native State.

ATTENDED NORFOLK BANQUET

President Edwin A. Alderman Also A Speaker—Prominent Virginians Greeted Him—Features of the Event.

Norfolk, Va., April 29.—In his native State of Virginia, Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, was today hailed as probably the next President of the United States. Though declining himself to discuss in any form possibilities in this direction, Governor Wilson was referred to by the local newspapers as "probable Democratic nominee for the Presidency in 1912," and the governor's presence as a guest of honor at tonight's dinner of the Pewter Platter Club ,of Norfolk, had its strong significance of future "high honors" for him if the influence of the hundred or more prominent men whose guest the governor was counts for anything in the advancement of his political interest, in this State.

Several times Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, and fellow guest of Governor Wilson at tonight's dinner, referred to higher duties to which New Jersey's chief executive may be called and frequently in private Governor Wilson was told of the strong sentiment in Virginia for him for the next Democratic presidential nomination.

While the Woodrow Wilson Democratic Club, organized in Norfolk to boom his candidacy for the presidency, immediately following Governor Wilson's election to the high office in New Jersey, had thought of arranging a public reception for the distinguished visitor during his stay in Norfolk, it was subsequently determined not to do this. The governor had come here as the guest of the Pewter Platter Club and the membership of the Wilson Club thought it would not be in good form to bring out the political side to the extent of a public reception to Governor Wilson under such auspices. The President of the Wilson Club, however, attended tonight's dinner.

Governor Wilson, who arrived in the city early today was the guest of Robert B. Tunstall, of Norfolk, at a luncheon given this afternoon at he Virginia Club and attended by more than a score of prominent people, including Dr. Alderman, William H. White, of Richmond, Va., president of the Richmond Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad; Eppa Hunton, of Richmond, and Robert L. Parrish, of Covington, Va. On this occasion Governor Wilson expressed his great pleasure at again being upon Virginia soil.

Governor Wilson will be in Norfolk until tomorrow night when he returns to Trenton via Baltimore to complete final arrangements for the beginning of his Western tour next week.

Tonight's dinner, given in honor of Goveror Wilson and Dr. Alderman, was attended by upwards of one hundred prominent Virginians with Judge Thomas H. Willcox, of Norfolk, as coastmaster.

Wilson on Political Issues.

Governor Wilson touching upon political issues said in part:

"Responsible business and genuine representation of the people in Government is our programme, and item by item, we shall carry it out," declared Governor Wilson, classifying himself as a liberal and setting forth the liberal platform. "A new temper has come into our affairs. Only a little while ago the whole country seemed deeply disturbed, as if with a sense of incalculable changes. So many things in its life seemed awry—there was widespread an impression of conditions that were unjust, iniquitous even, based upon selfishness and wrong and greed—that few saw anything, but agitation ahead—agitation that was likely to make business impossible.

'By imperceptible and very happy changes of temper and point of view we have come out of that state of mind, that perturbed view of our life, and have begun to get something like a complete vision of our problems and of the policies that much solve them. Programmes are taking the place of Philippines and programmes can be soberly examined and assessed, as unqualified criticisms and denunciations cannot be. We are not all of one mind. But we have ceased to be divided into alarmists and defenders of society and begin to re-divide ourselves into workable groups. It is customary to speak of this new classification as division into progressives and reactionaries, but after all, it is the old division between liberals and tories.

"It is clear—clear, at any rate to every genuine liberal—that many of the old formulas of our business and of our politics have been outgrown. Thy do not fit the facts and circumstances of the age. They were con-

THE TIMES' EXPLOSION CASE

John and James McNamara Will be Arraigned This Week—Detective Burns Expected in Los Angeles Soon.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 29.—Attorneys for both sides in the dynamiting case completed arrangements today for the final arraignment of John and James McNamara and Ortie E. McManigal. The appearance of the prisoners in court will not be deferred later than next Wednesday, by which time it is expected Clarence Darrow and Assistant District Attorney W. J. Ford, who has been named to assist District Attorney Fredericks, will have arrived here. Detective William J. Burns is also expected here soon.

Job Harriman, an attorney for the accused men, said today that Dr. J. A. Jolmes, director of the United States Bureau of Mines, will be one of the witnesses called to uphold the contention that gas and not an infernal machine caused the Times building explosion.

An important development today was the identification of James B. McNamara and James Brice, by Trebor McCachen, a bell boy who was employed in the hotel Argonaut, San Francisco, last September.

J. B. Brice, the man who is alleged to have purchased the dynamite that destroyed the Times building lived in the hotel. James McNamara was led into the jail office today with a number of other prisoners, and according to officials of the district attorney's office, the lad quickly picked out McNamara as the man he had known as Brice.

BUYS RALEIGH GAS PLANT.

Carolina Coming Extending Holdings. Blind Tiger Seizure—Notes.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., April 29.—It became known this afternoon that the Carolina Power & Light Co., of this city, now the parent corporation of an aggregate of around twelve millions of dollars capital, has purchased the Standard Gas & Electric Co., that has for many years supplied Raleigh's gas for lights and cooking purposes. The details of the transaction are not yet made public. The Carolina Light & Power Co., is developing now the famous Blewitt Falls power plant, will transmit the current to Raleigh and distribute it from here to many points in this section for light and power purposes. The corporation owns the Raleigh street car system.

Revenue officers seized over four barrels of bottled whiskey in the new store and refreshment stand of W. C. Pollard in the Academy of Music building today. Pollard came here several months ago from Atlanta and purchased the place. He told the officers he had just put off negligently the taking out of government license to handle liquors. He doesn't explain what he contemplates doing about the State prohibition law. That there was a consignment of three car loads of whiskey brought to Raleigh is the positive declaration of parties to government officials today. Ed Denton, many years the leading saloon keeper here, is bondsman for Pollard.

U. S. Marshal Dockery, just back from United States Court at Newbern, says he has five prisoners to send to the penitentiary at Atlanta as a result of the week's work. The most notable is B. F. Sanders, who gets one year and a day for violating the internal revenue laws in various ways. He entered a plea of guilty. The case against Editor Sanders, of the Independent and The Down Homer, for the sending of obscene matter in the mails, especially in The Independent, was continued to the October term of court.

The Public Laws passed by the 1911 Legislature are just from the public printed and in the hands of the Secretary of State for immediate distribution to the justices of the peace throughout the State, there being 9,000 of them the State over.

LAST TRACK MEET.

Carolina Defeats V. P. I.—Several State Records Are Lowered

(Special Star Telegram.)

Chapel Hill, N. C., April 29.—In one of the fastest meets ever held on the Hill, Carolina wiped out a defeat of last year by defeating V. P. I's. track team 69 1-2 to 47 1-2, and won on the final meet of the season. Carolina made eight first places and V. P. I. five. Four track records were lowered. Hoffman in the quarter, ran 3-5 seconds faster than has been done on the track before. Blalock jumped 21 feet in the broad jump, and Legge of V. P. I. 21 feet 2 1-4 inches, both records climbing near the South Atlantic record. Cobb and Patterson, of Carolina, in the two mile heat lowered the State record 20 seconds and probably ran the fastest two miles ever run before a Southern meet. Spence, of Carolina, lowered the track record in the mile 5 4-5 seconds.

THE FIGHT AT WINNIPEG.

Critical Situation Recall Earl Gray to Capital.

Winnipeg, April 29.—The critical situation at Ottawa has resulted in the sudden recall of Earl Grey to the capital from Winnipeg. The governor-general has cancelled all his engagements for next week and will leave tonight with his suite for Ottawa.

The determination of the opposition to fight reciprocity with the United State all Summer, if necessary, as outlined by leader Borden yesterday, thus preventing Sir Wilfrid Lauier from attending the imperial conference and coronation has caused a crisis in political circles.

HOUSE CONSIDERS FREE LIST ALONE

"Discharge Calender" Side-Tracked to Secure Early Vote on Measure.

TAUNTS FROM REPUBLICANS

Tariff Measures Most Important Before the Body—Five Hours' General Debate—Calendar Was Under Discussion.

Washington, April 29.—Right of way for the "farmers' free list bill" in the House next week was provided for today when the House voted in effect to put aside the "discharge calendar" on Monday and to meet an hour earlier each day until the bill is voted on.

The Democratic leaders did not accomplish this step until after the Republicans had taunted them about setting aside "calendar Monday" provided for by coalition of insurgent Republicans and Democrats last Congress and perpetuated by the present Congress.

No sooner had Representative Underwood, majority floor leader, made a motion to recess instead of adjourning until 11 o'clock Monday morning than Representative Dalzell, of the minority, made the point of order that such a motion would interfere with the regular order and furthermore would displace the consideration of the general service pension bill and other bills on the "discharge calendar" for Monday.

"Would the gentleman rob the country of the benefit of the discharge calendar, wrung from an unwilling majority in a revolution a short time ago?" inquired ex-Speaker Cannon.

"We believe in the discharge calendar" retorted Representative Underwood, but we are now seeking to lower the taxes on some 92,000,000 people and we deem that more important than the discharge calendar."

Mr. Dalzell withdrew his objection to the course mapped out by the Democrats.

The contest of party leaders at the close of the day had been preceded by five hours' general debate on the farmers' free list bill.

The final speech of the day was by Representative Heflin, of Alabama, who took the floor to "say something about the Republican party," to the insurgents, whom, he said, did not "insurge long enough", he extended an invitation from the Democratic party to "come ye out from among them and be ye separate from them." He described the stand-patters as a dying race, never going forward, but always backward. He likened the "new nationalists" to a dog "that smelt game, but couldn't quite locate it."

Representative Heflin accused the Republican party of pretending to be the friend of the American laboring man and then bringing in hundreds of thousands of foreigners to supplant him in his labor. He referred to the immigrants as including bomb throwers and anarchists that "strike at our Western civilization, but permitted to land because the steamship companies find ther transportation a profitable business and contribute to the Republican campaign funds."

The Alabama Congressman ridiculed the free list of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

Mr. Heflin concluded with the statement that the Democrats of the South, like the tribe of Judea, in keeping the covenant of the ark had kept the faith alive, until today the Democrats of the entire nation stood together a re-united party, sure of victory in 1912.

WATKINS TRIAL.

Case Will Hardly Reach the Jury Before Monday Afternoon.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Asheville, N. C., April 29.—The case of F. C. Watkins, charged with the killing of John Hill Bunting, of Wilmington, at Gladstone Hotel at Black Mountain in August, 1909, will not go to the jury before Monday afternoon. The taking of evidence was concluded this morning at 10:30 o'clock and immediately counsel began arguments. The argument engaged the attention of the court all day, and at adjournment this evening, Mr. Craig of the defense and Solicitor Reynolds for the prosecution, had not spoken. There is a great deal of interest in the case and much speaking. It seems to be the concensus of opinion since all the testimony is in, and after scrutinizing the jurors that the trial will again result in the jury failing to agree. That is th layman's view. The defense is certain of an acquittal, while the prosecution is equally sure of a conviction. However, the conservative view is that there will be a mistrial. In the event that the jury fails to agree it is probable that a motion will be made either one side or the other to remove the case to an adjoining county. The fight at this trial has been just as vigorous on both sides as at the first trial and this indicates that the defense is determined to acquit and that the prosecution is equally as deermined to convict.

Staunton, Va., April 29.—N. C. Watts, president of the Staunton Mutual Telephone Company, the Newport News Company, and other telephone lines, is ill with appendicitis and an operation may be necessary.

INTEREST IN ROAD BUILDING

Demands on State Department for Roadway Engineers Comes In from Everywhere — Had Mania for Starting Fires

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., April 29.—State Geologist Joseph Hyde Pratt says there is such a large and increasing demand for highway engineers pouring into him that it is absolutely impossible to anything like meet the demands and that they are coming from every quarter of the State.

Many counties are clamoring for engineers to devote their whole time to the work in the county and others want temporary service in the way of making the preliminary surveys and giving suggestions as to routes. Calls are coming from counties in the line of the proposed great Central Highday, Beaufort to Tennessee line; also from the counties interested in the Wilmington-to-Charlottee highway and then from numerous counties interested in the road-building generally within their territory. Especially pleasing requests come from Robeson, Brunswick, Forsythe and Cherokee. He says the county authorities are realizing more than ever the necessity of this expert engineering assistance in road-building that is to be economical and lasting. Of the immediate staff of road engineers of the Geological Survey R. P. Coble is now in Granville county, W. L. Falls is developing the Youngsville road in Franklin county, N. C., Hughes in Graham and Alamance counties for special work, W. C. Spoon has just now completed special work in Forsyth and Graham counties.

State Commissioner of Insurance Young, being notified of the sentence of George R. Judge in Baltimore, to six years in the penitentiary for burning, says Judge was prosecuted in this State for burnings in Wilmington and Rocky Mount and that he seemed to have a mania for starting fires just to see the fire department rush out to fight them. In Rocky Mount Judge organized a fire department in a mill settlement and then started fires now and again just to give his friends practice, it is said.

FATAL COAST LINE WRECK.

Walter Hagers, of Chicago, Victim. Baggage Master Injured.

Tampa, Fla., April 29.—Walter Hagens, of Chicago, was killed and T. F Cool, baggage master, was fatally injured, when Atlantic Coast Line train No. 39, from Jacksonville to Tampa, was wrecked near Odessa tonight. Twelve passengers were more or less seriously injured.

The wreck was due to spreading rails. The tender, baggage coach and express car turned over, the engine and other coaches remaining upright, although derailed.

Hagens, who was but 12 years old, was in the baggage car at the time, feeding a pet dog. When the car turned over he fell out of an open door and his head was crushed. Baggage-master Cook was injured in trying to save the lad. Hagens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Johnson, of Chicago, who own considerable property at Largo.

Of the passengers injured none is considered serious. A. L. Brickman, of Birmingham, had a leg broken. A relief train was sent out from Tarpon Springs.

MRS. DURHAM IN EXTREMIS.

Operation Undergone at Lumberton. Polk Miller Pleased.

(By Long Distance Telephone.)

Lumberton, N. C., April 29.—Mrs. C. H. Durham underwent an operation at the Thompson Hospital this afternoon and while she is doing as well as could be expected at a late hour tonight, her condition is regarded as critical. The operation was performed by Dr. Hubert Royster, of Raleigh. Hundreds of friends in this section and elsewhere in the State, hope for Mrs. Durham's speedy recovery.

Cols. Polk Miller and Tom Booker, with their colored quartette, delightfully entertained a large audience in the opera house tonight. It was undoubtedly the finest entertainment of its kind ever given here. No one having the opportunity should miss this treat.

PERISHED IN FIRE AFTER THE WRECK

Eight Known Dead in Fatal Railroad Accident in New Jersey Yesterday.

ARE CAUGHT IN DEATH TRAP

Eight Persons Are Missing and Believed to be Dead—Train Going 50 Miles an Hour Jumps Track at Curve.

Easton, Pa., April 29.—Two persons lost their lives, eight are missing and believed to be dead and half a hundred others were injured this afternoon at Martin's Creek, N. J., in a wreck of an excursion train carrying 170 school teachers and friends from Utica and Syracuse, N. Y., and vicinity to Washington for a week's outing.

The train was one furnished the teachers by the Delaware Lackawanna & Western Railroad and was wrecked while it was traveling at a high rate of speed over a stretch of track controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The locomotive jumped from the track, the cars followed, toppled over and were set afire by exploding oil, the wrecked coaches having sideswiped an oil tank along the track when they left the rails.

The entire train was quickly enveloped in flames and completely consumed by the fire. The eight missing persons, seven of whom were women and lived in Utica, are believed to have been burned to death in the wreckage. The finding of charred bones led the railroad wrecking crews to the conclusion that they are dead.

The most seriously injured were removed to the Easton Hospital where two of them, Miss Elanor E. Rutherford, of Utica, teacher, and Charles M. Person, of Stroudsburg, Pa., a Pennsylvania railroad conductor died tonight.

The physicians at the hospital stated late tonight that most of those in the hospital will recover. The cause of the wreck has not been determined. The place where the accident occurred had been undergoing repairs and unfinished work may have been responsible for the train leaving the track.

Easton, Pa., April 29.—A special train carrying 169 school teachers and their friends from Utica to Syracuse, N. Y., bound for Washington, D. C., for a holiday, was wrecked on the Belvidere-Delaware division of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Martin's Creek, N. J., eight miles north of this city this afternoon. Eight persons are missing and they are believed to be dead. Charred bones have been found in the burned ruins of the train. The injured number at least 50, some of them, it is believed, will die. Aside from three members of the train crew and one male passenger, the missing and injured are women.

The more seriously injured are in the Easton hospital. The train was traveling at a rate of 50 miles an hour and when the locomotive struck a sharp curve, where men had been repairing the tracks, it jumped the track and ran along a hillside, carrying four of the five cars with it.

Hardly had the train come to a stop before fire started and spread so rapidly that some of the imprisoned passengers were burned to death. As the train left the track it side swiped and broke a tank of oil, which ran over the wreckage and added to the fury of the flames. The fire broke out at both ends of the train, hot coals from the firebox of the engine starting the fire at that end and flames from the stoves in the dining car starting the destruction at the rear.

Twenty minutes after the accident there were a score of physicians on the ground, and every farm house in the vicinity was quickly transformed into an improvised hospital, while farmers' wagons were pressed into service as ambulances. Telepragh and telephone wires were torn away and for some time it was impossible to reach the outside world.

Had it not been for the heroic efforts of the men and women some of whom were cut and bleeding, the loss of life would have been appalling. Unconscious forms were pinioned beneath the wreckage with flames leaping toward them when the less seriously injured plunged into the debris, worked the unconscious victims loose and carried them beyond reach of the flames. One young woman was found singing and dancing on the railroad track half a mile from the scene of the wreck. She was cut, bruised and burned but in her hysterical condition did not appear conscious of pain or of what had happened.

Priests from the Easton and Phillipsburg, N. J., parishes were taken to Martins Creek in automobiles, and worked among the injured. Charles M. Person, the conductor of the train, was operated upon and died at 8 o'clock tonight, thus making one known dead. The surgeons found a compound fracture at the base of the brain.

Miss Eleanor Rutherford died at 10:35 o'clock tonight. She was frightfully mangled about the head and her face was not recognizable.

May Sale starts Monday at 9 o'clock at Rehder's Big Store, 4th Street Bridge. **

CAROLINIANS IN WASHINGTON

What is Going on Among State's Delegation in Congress—Tariff Problem a Knotty One—Other Notes of Interest.

Wilmington Star Bureau. Congress Hall.

Washington, D. C., April 29.—Doctors L. B. McBrayer, W. A. Thompson, I. M. Hardy and A. A. Kent, a North Carolina committee that had been North to examine institutions for the feeble-minded, were here on their way home today.

In the Senate Committee round-up the North Carolina Senators fared well as they have done for a number of years. Senator Simmons is chairman of the Engrossed Bills, and Senator Overman, Woman Suffrage. Mr. Simmons will retain Finance, Commerce, Coast Defense, Cuban Relations, Examine the several branches of the Civil Service, Expenditures in the Department of Agriculture, and Inter-Oceanic Canals.

Senator Overman goes on Rules, one of the most important committees of the Senate, and will keep Judiciary, Appropriations, Claims, Conservation of Natural Resources, Fisheries, Forest Reservation and the Protection of Game, Industrial Expositions, and the University of the United States.

The State will be well cared for in the Senate. Finance, Commerce, Appropriations, and Judiciary are among the very best committees, and both Senators rank and stand well on their respective committees.

In addition Senator Simmons is on the National Waterways Commission and Senator Overman is a member of the sub-committee to investigate "Third Degree" charges.

The South is becoming very much interested in the tariff as a business proposition. Heretofore, for several decades at least, that section of the country has considered it academically. The stump speaker has discussed it but the farmer and the manufacturer has not worried about duties. But conditions have changed. The mountain people, especially those in the districts represented by Messrs. Webb, Gudger and Doughton, sat up and took notice when the Canadian reciprocity bill was under consideration. The manufacturers of cotton goods are interested in the talk of revising the cotton schedule.

Although the Democrats of the House are following the lead of Chairman Underwood, many of them do not like the Farmers' Free List Bill. The speech of Minority Leader Mann, attacking this measure fore and aft and all along the line, made the cold chills run up and down the spines of some weak-kneed Democrats.

The South is undergoing a change. It may drift back to where it was long before the Civil War on the tariff issue. Fifteen years of prosperity has converted the farmer into a business man of a high order. His views are not yet convictions but he is reading and thinking. Nobody knows this better than the abler and more observant of the Southern Congressmen, who will make haste shortly.

The Democrats are moving continuously. They realize that radical measures might depress business and bring down upon their heads the wrath, whether just or not, of the farmer.

BIG C. & O. BOND ISSUE.

Amount Will Not Exceed $125,000,000. Stockholders Meet.

Richmond, Va., April 29.—At a special meeting held here today the stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company unanimously adopted a resolution authorizing the issue of bonds to an amount not exceeding $125,000,000. They also adopted a resolution authorizing a mortgage to secure the bonds, and it is understood that this mortgage provides that the bonds be used to retire the outstanding general funding and improvement 5 per cent. bonds, now limited to $11,000,000, which may be redeemed prior to maturity; also to pay certain outstanding obligations; the remainder of the bonds to be reserved under proper restrictions for the construction or acquisition of additional lines, terminals, and equipment and for general improvement.

The meeting adjourned until May 11th. It was largely attended, there being more than 400,000 shares represented in person or by proxy.

SPINNERS TO CHARLOTTE.

Arrange Meeting to Discuss Ten Million Dollar Merger.

Charlotte, N. C., April 29.—A meeting of Southern Yarn Sprinners, who are interested in the proposed $10,000,000 merger of cotton mills, will be held in this city Monday following the preliminary conference held several weeks ago in Washington. While these interested are having little or nothing to say in advance, it is cerrently reported here that 500,000 spindles have already signed up, with probably that many more interested and expected to enter the combine. The mills are scattered throughout the South, the majority being located in the Carolinas and Georgia. It is said that the proposed combination has ample financial backing and that its success is assured. Frank L. Underwood, of New York, who is one of the leading spirits in the proposed merger, will arrive here tomorrow to attend the meeting.

Christiana, Norway, April 29.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the International League of Women Suffragists, who has been lecturing here on behalf of votes for women, was given an audience by King Haakon today. She was introduced by Herbert H. D. Peirce, the retiring American minister.

REBELS EXCITED OVER THE REPORT

Word From Chihuahua That Federal Troops are Marching on Juarez.

MADERO READY FOR ATTACK

Peace Advotes Have Gathered at El Paso—Rebels Reported to be Still Active in State of Sonora—Details.

El Paso, Texas, April 29.—The Chihuahua bulletin stating that 1,000 troops left today for Juarez caused great excitement in the revolutionary camp.

"If the report is true, and we can confirm it, that moment we will attack and take Juarez, "General Francisco I. Madero, Jr., said. "It may be that Chihuahua has not been informed that the armistice was extended for another five days yet, and that the troops, if they have been dispatched, will be recalled as soon as the mistake is discovered."

General Navarro in Juarez was without information as to the alleged reinforcements. General Madero telegraphed to the City of Mexico and in reply was told that the government knew nothing of the movement of troops from Chihuahua.

General Madero was unable to get a telegram of inquiry through to Chihuahua.

According to General Madero, a movement of troops in Chihuahua in any direction would be a violation of the armistice.

"It makes no difference in what direction they were sent," General Madero said, "even if to a point outside the quadrilateral covered by the truce. Chihuahua itself is within the quadrilateral and there can be no military movement to or from that city under the terms of the armistice."

Madero has scouts stationed at twenty miles intervals between here and Chihuahua, but even by the fastest riding, relays could not bring the information to camp in less than seventy-two hours, it is said.

Reprt Was Delayed.

Laredo, Texas, April 29.—Today's dispatch from Chihuahua reporting the movement of 1,000 Mexican Federal troops towards Juarez bears the date of April 25th and was detained four days in transmission.

Owing to the inadequate means of transmitting news in Mexico due to disarranged telegraph service, interrupted train schedules and other mediums news of the armistice probably did not reach Chihuahua until a later date than today's dispatch bears I' is therefore not improbable that a forward movement of Federal troops, if made as indicated by today's Chihuahua advices, has been countermanded.

In event of the Mexican troops having started for Juarez it is unlikely that they would be heard from for many days as the march would take them through a trackless desert for many miles. It is estimated the march from Chihuahua to Juarez would require at least nine days.

Rebels Still Active.

Douglas, Ariz., April 29.—Despite peace negotiations in El Paso the rebel activity in the State of Sonora, across the border from here continues unabated. Today a band of insurrectos numbering between 500 and 1,000 were reported marching southward toward Moctezuma from Nacozari, 75 miles southwest of Douglas.

Major Luis Barron, commanding the rurales at Agu Prieta, left there with 300 picked men in pursuit. It is believed that Juan Cabral is the leader of the rebels and that the forces of Barron and Cabralmay come to gether near Fronteras.

Antonio Gracia has returned to Sonora from El Paso bearing a new commission as chief of the rebel forces.

Bands of rebels, each numbering from fifteen to 40 men, are roving the country, most of them seeking leaders.

Ready for the Conference.

El Paso, Texas, April 29.—The coterie of insurrecto chiefs summoned by Francisco I. Madero to participate in peace parleys preliminary to the formulation of a definite agreement with the Federal government, was completed tonight by the arrival from Washington, D. C., of Dr. Vasquez Gomez, diplomatic agent in the United States of the Mexican insurrectos, and Senor Pino Suarez, provisional governor of the State of Yucatan.

Dr. Gomez's appointment as the insurrecto representative in the informal peace negotiations, with the government is expected to be announced officially tomorrow. Most of the insurrecto leaders were at the station to meet Dr. Gomez and Senor Suarez, and a conference with General Madero was arranged for later in the evening.

Columbus, Ga., April 29.—J. P. Murray, known as the "Gun maker of the Confederacy," died at his home here today at the age of 80 years. At the opening of the Civil War Murray was placed in charge of the Confederate gun factory here and he continued to manufacture arms for the armies of the South until the factory was destroyed by Wilson's raiders in 1865.

PEENSY RELAY RACES.

Annual Carnival On Franklin Field—Various Events.

Philadelphia, April 29.—At the University of Pennsylvania's annual carnival of relay races and field sports on Franklin Field here this afternoon, Chicago University captured the classic one mile college relay championship of America from a fine field of Etsaern quarter-mile runners, while Pennsylvania took the two-mile National relay championship and was beaten in the stretch for the four-mile relay American Championship by Cornell.

Individual honors were won by Notre Dame University, the capable performers of the Western Institute winning three of the six field eevnts. Pennsylvania won the high jump through the good performance of Burdick, the Eastern Intercollegiate champion. Chisholm, the Eastern Intercollegiate champion won the 120-yard hurdle event for Yale. Horner, the Eastern Intercollegiate champion in putting the shot, won that event for Michigan, and Tilley, of Dartsmouth, was the winner in the hammer throw. Martin, of Notre Dame, won the 100-ward dash; Wasson, Notre Dame, the Western Intercollegiate champion, took the broad jump and Philbrook of the same institution, and the Western Intercollegiate champion in the throwing the discus won the event.

Gardner, of Yale; Murphy, of Illinois, and Dukes, of Cornell, tied in the pole vault for first place, at twelve feet three inches, a good performance. On the toss off Gardner won first prize.

WILL PLAY RALEIGH TEAM.

Fine Game of Ball Promised for This Week—Want Championship.

Wilmington and Raleigh High Schools' baseball teams will meet at League Park Thursday afternoon and an excellent game is looked for. Yesterday a week ago the local team played Goldsboro here and it was generally declared to be one of the best amateur games ever witnessed on the League Park diamond.

The Wilmington boys are hopeful of capturing the championship of the High Schools of eastern North Carolina and with this end in view are endeavoring to secure a game with Wilson. So far the local boys have made an excellent record. Two games have been played with Kinston and Wilmington won in one contest and tied the score in the other. Out of three games with Goldsboro the locals won two and the visitors one. Only one game has been played with Raleigh and the boys from the Capital City were victorious.

The game will be called at 3:30. Admission for adults [illegible] 25 cents and children 15 cents.

BALL AT FAYETTEVILLE.

Much Interest in Game There Monday, Carolina and Baptists.

There is much local interest in the announcement of the game to be played in Fayetteville Monday between Wake Forest and Carolina at the Fair Grounds. The indications are that a goodly number of Wilmington devotees of the sport will go up to Fayetteville on the morning train and return after the game on the afternoon train. The game will be called at 3 P. M. and this will permit all to see the game and return in time to reach the city at 8 o'clock Monday night. A gentleman returning from Fayetteville last night states that the game has been widely advertised by the Chamber of Commerce of that city and quite a number of Fayetteville business houses are resplendent with decorations in honor of the big event. The admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. It promises to be one of the great games of the season and all who can should see it.

MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED

T. B. Taylor, Clerk at Seaboard Freight Office, Has Not Been Seen Since Thursday Night. Foul Play Feared.

Missing for two days and with no clue as to his whereabouts, the friends of T. B. Taylor, a clerk holding a responsible position at the Seaboard Air Line railway, in this city, have become very much concerned and fear he may have met with foul play. The police have been informed about the disappearance and asked to make every possible effort to locate the missing man.

Taylor was last seen Thursday night at Front and Princess streets where he purchaserd a newspaper. The following morning he did not go to work and at the office it was thought that perhaps he was sick, but investigation later in the day proved that such was not the case. Although his disappearance at that time caused some comment not so much was thought about it until the second day came without any word from him and his friends then began to get busy. He boarded at Mrs. Bowden's, corner of Second and Chestnut streets, and an inspection of his room showed that nothing whatever had been removed and was apparently like it was when he left it on the evening of April 27th. Not a thing that a person ordinarily would carry along even for a short trip could be missed. Further investigation showed that the very day of his disappearance he cashed a check for a friend and the check has not yet been turned in. Thursday night Mr. Currie, agent of the Seaboard Air Line, saw Taylor at Front and Princess streets and talked to him a few minutes and he appeared to be all right and said nothing whatever about going off.

Mrs. Taylor left here some weeks ago for New York where she is on a visit to relatives. Some think that perhaps Taylor has gone to New York but if he did he carried none of his personal belongings with him.

Taylor is about 35 years of age and weighs about 120 pounds. He was formerly located in Florida with a railroad and his health is said to have been very bad there and at one time he suffered a nervous breakdown. He is said to have been working very hard recently and some think he probably suffered a recurrence of his former attack but was affected differently.

Only the night before Taylor disappeared the mate on a vessel lying at one of the Seaboard wharves is said to have been knocked down and robbed by two negroes. They secured his watch and all the cash he had on his person. The robbery is said to have occurred near the warehouse of the Corbett Company. This has led to the theory that perhaps Taylor was knocked down and robbed while going down to the Seaboard freight office Thursday night and his body thrown into the river.

The police were informed yesterday of the facts and all members of the force have been instructed to see if any clue can be found.

Taylor held a very responsible position with the Seaboard Air Line and Mr. Currie, the agent, is said to be greatly concerned over his disappearance.

GOULD-GRAHAM NUPTIALS.

Wedding Solemnized in New York Yesterday—The Event.

New York, April 29.—Miss Annie Douglas Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Vos, and related to the former royal family of Hawaii, was married in St. Thomas' Episcopal church late today to Jay Gould, second son of George Gould. Compared with the other recent marriages in the Gould family—the Gould-Drexel and the Gould-Decies weddings—today's ceremony was simple and there was no crush of the curious.

The bride wore a Princess gown of white satin draped with old Brussels lace and a veil of the same lace. Her only jewel ornament was a collar of pearls. Her attendants wore ivory white marquisette draped with shadow lace.

The Princess Kawananakoa, of Hawaii, a relative of the bride's mother, attended today's ceremony, having stopped at New York on her way from Hawaii to England for the coronation.

BAD RUNAWAY IN RALEIGH.

Warden Sales' Heroic Act—Mr. N. B. Broughton Was Injured.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., April 29.—Warden T. P. Sayles, of the State's prison, did a heroic thing this evening on Fayetteville street, when he threw himself between a frantic runaway horse and buggy and his family surry in which were Mrs. Sales and other members of his family, thereby preventing the horse from dashing into the vehicle with most probable disastrous effects. Mr. Sales was himself knocked down, and painfully, but not seriously hurt.

The runaway team was the property of Masters & Agee, merchants. The animal broke away from the hitching post in front of the store and dashed down Fayetteville street, and ran into the buggy occupied by Mr. N. B. Broughton, who was thrown out and painfully injured about his face and body. His injuries are not thought to be very serious.

WILMINGTON BASEBALL LEAGUE

Will Open Season at League Park Next Saturday—Two Games.

Next Saturday will open the baseball season in Wilmington, and those who have been under the impression that we were left out in the cold this season need to be awakend to a realization of the fact that all signs point to a season of the national sport that will be quite as interesting as any we have had in some years. The teams composing the Wilmington Amateur Baseball League have been busy practicing for a month and are showing up in real classy manner, or so it appears to a looker-on. The boys are all in exuberant spirits over the bright prospects and are promising to deliver the goods in a style that will surprise Wilmington lovers of the game, who may not realize that we have some of the best amateur and semi-professional baseball players in the State right here in the city.

Several weeks ago a contract was closed with the Wilmington Driving Association for the use of their grounds for the League, the association management agreeing to erect suitable grandstands and prepare the grounds in time for the opening of the season. It seems now that they have failed to come up with their part of the contract, as very little has been done towards getting the grounds ready to play ball, and in the short time before the opening of the season the management of the baseball league decided that it would be advisable to start negotiations for the use of the grounds at League Park and a contract was closed yesterday with the Tidewater Power Company, the League leasing the grounds for the entire season. The necessary repairs to the grounds, fence and grandstand will be made by the League, and everything will be in readiness to play next Saturday. This is thought to be a much more desirable arrangement on account of the closer proximity to the city, and a very reasonable trade was made with the Tidewater people.

The season will be opened Saturday with a double header, the A. C. L. and W. L. I. teams crossing swords for the first game at 3 o'clock, following at 5 o'clock by the Boys' Brigade and Y. M. C. A. teams. The price of admission has been placed at 25 cents for admission to any part of the ground for adults, and 15 cents for children.

The refreshment privileges have been let to Messrs. Pruitt & Hartman, two enterprising young men, who will dispense the usual line of peanuts, cigars, and cold drinks, and promise good service to the patrons.

AMERICAN PUGILIST WINS.

Willie Lewis Got Decision Over "Dixie Kid" in Paris.

Paris, April 29.—Willie Lewis, the American welter-weight, beat the 'Dixie Kid," colored welter-weight on points in a 20-round bout at the Cirque De Paris tonight. There was some protesting on the part of the spectators, many of whom thought the fight should have been a draw.

..Theatrical..

"Two Old Confederates."

Conspicuous in the press notices of most musical organizations is a description of the years of careful training that have fitted its members for the entertainment of the less fortunate in educational advantages in this field. The fame of Polk Miller's "Old South Quartette", which will be one of the chief attractions in the fine concert to be given here on Tuesday evening has been built from a point of view precisely opposite. Four awkward, thick-skulled, heavy-handed negroes compose the organization and they are absolutely uncontaminated by education of any sort, musical or otherwise. When out on the stage with "the two old Confederates" they are factory hands and day laborers. There is nothing of "the new era" about them. They are of the genuine black cornfield type but they were born with music in their souls and they can sing.

Between the ante-bellum yarns of Polk Miller and the banjo selections of Col. Tom Booker, the negroes sing the old Southern airs with a swing and a rythm that go straight to the Southern heart. Professionals have tried in vain to rival these simple-minded, unskilled negroes with the well-loved tunes of Dixie. There is something about their way of doing it that no drilling in the schools can give.

At the Bijou.

"The greatest and most beautiful hand-painted film ever manufactured," That is the claim the Bijou management makes for the star motion picture of the big new bill with which it will tomorrow inaugurate one of the most glorious weeks in its history. This hand-painted film is the very latest Pathe creation entitled "Finland" Announcement that such a film would soon be ready for market was received by the entire moving picture world with delight and the Bijou "got in on the ground floor" in getting one of the first copies. The main scene of the film shows the Falls of Imatra, and the spectacle is not only beautiful but awe inspiring. In this really wonderful picture of "Finland" is also found a big lesson. Still another star Pathe film is slated for tomorrow's big bill. It is "Who Is Nellie?" and it is one of the cleverest comedy pictures ever made.

The Crystal Palace.

A varied programme of several acts has been arranged for the coming week with the regular mid-week change of vaudeville and new pictures each day. A sepcial feature for the children will be shown Monday, an extravagant picture, "A Visit to Dolly's Land." An additional picture Monday will be a pretty drama entitled, "Secret of the Palms." These two photo-plays with the varied vaudeville constitute an attractive performance. Matinee at 3:30 and 4:30 and evening 7:30 to 11 o'clock continuous.

Joyland.

The little theatre on Market street was crowded to its full capacity last night, and the programme of the usual high-class, pleased everyone. Mr. Reilly had on an exceptionally clever musical solo, which brought continuous encores and the pictures were especially strong numbers. Tomorrow another big bill goes on and the management have several feature films to put before their patrons next week, guaranteeing a week that has not been excelled in this city in any motion picture house.

The Grand.

So it goes at all times, another week gone that has marked a grand success at the Grand. Saturday was a day such as you read about. The place was crowded all the afternoon and night. Monday the Grand will throw its doors open at the usual hour and will start the coming week with its whirl of pleasure, of motion pictures, songs and music. You have got all day today to think it over and come to the Grand where you can be with the many that the Grand has made smile with satisfaction. With their perfect system of ventilation the Grand is perfectly comfortable on every occasion and you can enjoy the pictures without knowing it's sultry and hot outside. Three interesting pictures will be on for Monday and Mr. Baldwin will sing a new song, one that will appeal to everyone. The orchestra will play the effects during the pictures. Open at 2 P. M. and the show continues until 11 P. M.

WEEK'S NEWS AT LUMBERTON

Recovering From Excitement of Primary—Farm Life Schools—Light and Water Plant—Flour Mill Located.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., April 29.—Our people have about recovered from the excitement of the primary held Tuesday for the purpose of nominating a mayor, three commissioners, three graded school trustees and three members of the board of audit and finance. The election will be held Monday, but it will be a very tame affair, as few peop'e care to vote any more, and several have been heard to declare that they would not be caught taking part in another primary.

Truth is, it is enough to disgust decent people to see how disgraceful some peanut politicians can make themselves on election occasions. There has been talk of calling another primary for the purpose of letting the people say who shall fill the various appointive offices, but a petition has been circulated and largely signed protesting against any more strife which would surely result from another primary, and the same petition asks that Chief Redfern be retained in his position. Gossip says "Somebody has been dealing in futures." There is little doubt that some of the pie chasers will be on the sick list if they don't get on the town pay roll. The primary Tuesday has been classed as "a great victory for the people." As was predicted before the election, the vote was close, and Mr. W. O. Thompson, who entered he race just a wee.. before the election, was defeated by only 39 votes. Though defeated he certainly made a good run.

State Senator Cobb is working hard for the Farm Life School. There is no denying the fact that many of the best farmers in the county are opposed to the idea of issuing any more bonds. They do not understand the proposition well enough to vote on it intelligently, and will not vote at all. Supt. Joyner has been speaking in the county during this week in the interest of the school and is said to have made a few converts. Different sections of the county seem divided on it. Rowland is enthusiastic for it, and has offered great inducements for the school there. In the upper end of the county the people all seem to be against it. From what we can learn we do not think much thought is being given the matter in this immediate section. If the taxpayers see fit to endorse the measure, Rowland seems to be the best place in the county for the school.

A report of the work of the light and water plant, showing the receipts and disbursements from April 1, 1910, to April 1, 1911, is now in the hands of the printer, and when it is given out to the public the citizens are going to have their eyes opened. The reports circulated on the streets by people who did not know what they were talking about will be exploded. It has been charged that the plant has been operated at a great loss to the town, when, according to the forthcoming statement, it will be shown that the lights on the streets and waer supply for the town cost during the year $239.78, a fracion less than $20 per month. The statement will show that the plant is earning for the town 6 per cent., on $43,000, comparing the service given with other towns where the plants are not owned by the town. This statement is being published for the purpose of correcting a wrong impression which has been made with street talk, and is done by some gentlemen who have done the work simply that the people may know the exact state of affairs. When this itemized statement has been read we are of the opinion that those who favor the sale of the plant will change their views. If anyone knows of a better superintendent for a light and water plant than the town now has, they ought to get busy and trot him out. From street hands up, the service in Lumberton is as good as can be found in any town of its size. Read the statement and draw your own conclusions between the figures and the statements put in circulation by those who did not take the trouble to investigate the matter.

Lumberton gets the flour mill, the requirements of the stockholders of the mill having been complied with by our people. Let others come. Not so many years ago geese notified many of our people when it was time to rise in the morning, but now it is the blowing of the whistles of manufacturing enterprises that arouses them. There is still plenty of room for others and it's an undisputed fact that Lumberton is the best town between Wilmington and Charlotte.

Mr. Lacy Breece, an old Lumberton boy, who served his time in the Robesonian office, but left here in 1905, was a welcome visitor yesterday. Since leaving here, Mr. Breece has spent most of his time in Macon, Ga. While in town yesterday he was offered a position which it is hoped he will accept, but he had not decided last night as to whether or not he would return to Lumberton.

Strawberries have made their appearance on the local market, but the prices are beyond the reach of many of our people.

The Lumberton Bakery is now furnishing hot bread and rolls for supper. This is a new feature which will delight many housekeepers. Mr. Blackburn, the manager of the bakery, states that he will in a short time put on a wagon and then all his customers will have to do is to use the 'phone and he will do the rest.

Mr. J. H. Wishart, the grocer, has just put on a new and substantial delivery wagon which is kept busy delivering groceries.

Constable W. B. Savage, of Wilmington, was a visitor here Thursday evening. He came up after a colored man who had evaded the officers down there. The darkey was foolish—if he wanted to get away he should not have come here. Sheriff McNeill received a message from Wilmington asking him to look out for the fellow, the matter was placed in the hands of Deputy Barnes, who with the assistance of Chief Redfern, had the man behind the bars in less than an hour. Criminals will show wisdom to keep away from here while the present efficient officers are doing duty.

An interesting newspaper controversy is on here now between Mr. T. L. Johnson, attorney at law, and Mr. Ben Edwards, the shoemaker. If they will just keep knocking each other, readers of the paper will be highly entertained if the same kind of articles are to continue as started.

Among the graduates of the North Carolina Medical College of Charlotte, appears the name of William Emmet Wishart. He is a son of the late John J. Wishart, a native of this county, and who was a nephew of Mr. A. S. Wishart, and a cousin to the Lumberton Wisharts.

One of the most beautiful marriages that has occurred here in some time was solemnized at the First Baptist church Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when Miss Margaret Ward became the bride of Mr. E. B. Ward, of Rowland, Rev. C. H. Durham performing the ceremony. Immediately after the marriage they left for Rowland, the home of the groom. Mr. Ward is assistant cashier in one of the Rowland banks. The best wishes of a large circle of friends go with them on the journey of life.

Wednesday night at 9:30 o'clock, Mr. O. L. Rodgers and Miss Estelle Freeman, daughter of Mr. S. T. Freeman, were united in marriage, the ceremony being performed by Rev. I. P. Hedgepeth at the home of the bride. Mr. Rodgers holds a position in the barber shop of Mr. W. H. Stalvey. Their many friends wish them a long and happy life.

It is expected that quite a number of baseball lovers will go to Fayetteville Monday to witness the game between the University and Wake Forest teams.

For several years there has been complaint about the manner in which some people run automobiles through the country, often wanting to keep the whole road and paying no attention to frightened horses. But at last it is said in this section at least, something is here to compete with the automobile, and that something is the motorcycle. It is stated that where an auto driver sees himself meeting one of Uncle Sam's rural carriers riding the motorcycle, he immediately gives him room. The motorcycle doesn't need a horn or whistle as it makes plenty of racket without any blowing attachment.

The motion picture show which was inaugurated at the opera house Monday night for the season is already becoming very popular and the patrons are delighted with the service. A traveling man who visited the show one night during the week declared it was as good as any of the city shows in the country. Beginning next week, one-half of the receipts will be given each Friday night to the Associated Charities. This is a worthy cause and should be encouraged by a liberal attendance.

To give some idea of the lumber business down the R. & C., the passenger train came in one evening during the week pulling 11 cars loaded with lumber. This was done because the freight trains could not move the stuff rapidly enough.

The merchants have adopted our suggestion of last Sunday, and commencing next Tuesday will close their places of business at 6 P. M. every day but Saturday. This will meet the approval of the people generally, and it is up to the shoppers to be on time.

This section is beginning to need rain very much. All that the young crops need to make them grow is rain. The farms are in the most perfect state of cultivation that has been seen at this season of the year in a long time, and the only essential at this time is rain. Traveling is extremely disagreeable on account of the dust.

Mr. Geo. B. McLeod who has been confined to his room for the past three or four weeks on account of sickness, is improving and hopes soon to be able to be out again. Mrs. Alf. McLeod has also been confined to her room for several days with an attack of the fever. The condition of Dr. R. M. Norment, who has been confined to his room for several weeks, remains about the same, with little, if any, signs of improvement. There are several cases of chills and fever reported in this community.

The V. & C. S. is now equipped with new station signs and bulletin boards. Superintendent Russell is all the time doing something to make people take notice.

Mr. D. D. Covington, third trick operator for the Seaboard, has been transferred to Pee Dee, and is succeeded here by Mr. J. J. Fried. The moon changed this week.

We heard a young man make a statement yesterday that he threw away the day before $3.50 for mean whiskey and drank so much he lost two days' work. He said he had no idea of getting drunk, but when he found himself in possession of so much booze he was tanked up before he knew it.

WHITEVILLE AFFAIRS.

Judge Sets Verdict Aside—Strawberries Selling Well—Other News.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Whiteville, N. C., April 29.—Judge Cooke yesterday set aside the verdict in the case of the negro who sued the Seaboard Air Line for damages and the jury returned a verdict in favor of the road. Judge Cooke says he is satisfied from the evidence that the plaintiff should have been given reasonable damages and so ordered that he be given a new trial. This is the case won by Hon. John D. Bellamy.

Strawberries, of the Klondyke variety, sold in Tabor as high as $13 per crate, a price never before reached. It is now thought that the berry crop will be short, and this accounts for the high prices paid, and which will more than make up to farmers the loss they would sustain by said shortage.

The Whiteville High School closes next Friday, when the teachers will return to their homes. It is thought that the increased taxable property in Whiteville will hereafter enable the school to be run the full term as a free school.

There will not be much more than half of an average tobacco crop planted in Coulmbus county this year, for the reason that growers cannot get plants. Another cause is that last season the price paid was unsatisfactory, and with the high price of cotton farmers decided that there was more money in the fleecy staple than the weed.

Hon. James M. Shipman was in Whiteville yesterday. He says they are all anxious to see work started draining White Marsh, but the obstacle seems to be that the parties owning the land below the railroad do not want the drainage done. But Mr. Shipman thinks that enough fall can be had by starting at the crossing of the Atlantic Coast Line.

TICKET WINDOW EXEMPTIONS.

List of Several Railroads Announced by the Corporation Commission.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Apirl 29.—The Corportation Commission exempts 21 towns of 2,000 and more inhabitants on the Southern Railway; 11 on the Norfolk Southern and 7 on the Atlantic Coast Line and five on the Seaboard Air Line from the requirement to maintain two windows at stations, one for issuing mileage tickets to holders of mileage books.

The traveling men made the fight before the Legislature for the railroads to be required to pull mileage on trains and the compromise for the double window service in towns of 2,000 and more inhabitants resulted with the proviso that the Corporation Commission have authority to exempt any towns where shown not to be necessary. Published by the WILMINGTON STAR COMPANY, INC., Wilmington, N. C.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Wilmington, N. C., under Act of Congress, March 2nd, 1874.

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.

PUBLISHERS' ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE MORNING STAR, the oldest daily newspaper in North Carolina, is published daily except Monday, at $6 per year, $3 for six months, $1.50 for three months, 50 cents for one month, served by carriers in the city, or by mail.

THE SUNDAY STAR, by mail, one year, $1; six months, 50 cents; three months, 25 cents.

ADVERTISING RATES may be had on application, and advertisers may feel assured that through the columns of this paper they may reach all Wilmington, Eastern Carolina and contiguous territory in South Carolina.

Obituary sketches, cards of thanks, communications espousing the cause of a private enterprise or a political candidate, and like matter, will be charged at the rate of 10 cents per line, or if paid cash in advance, a half rate will be allowed. Announcements of fairs, festivals, balls, hops, picnics, society meetings, political meetings, etc., will be charged under same conditions, except so much thereof as may be of news value to readers of the paper.

Advertisements discontinued before expiration of contracts are charged transient rates for time actually published. Payment for transient advertisements must be cash in advance. Contract advertisers will not be allowed to exceed their space at same rates or advertise anything foreign to their regular business without extra charge. Advertisements to occupy special place will be charged for according to position desired.

TELEPHONES: Business Office, No. 51; Editorial and Local rooms, No. 61. Call either, if the other doesn't answer.

COMMUNICATIONS, unless they contain important news, or discuss briefly and properly subjects of real interest, are not wanted; and if acceptable in every other way, they will invariably be rejected unless the real name of the author accompanies the same, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

Sunday, April 30, 1911.

Further South there is complaint of too much rain while over here on the Atlantic we are having a drought.

If anything got wrong with Caesar's Head it must have been on account of the way things are going in South Carolina of late.

Not a single Ballinger man has been left in the Interior Department since the Democratic victory. They nauseated the body politic.

Richmond is talking of a trolley line to the sea. Wilmington needs rural trolley lines into two or three counties surrounding the city.

An Arkansas man ate a bowl of yeast to win a wager. He will doubtless rise above the ridicule that people will seek to heap upon him.

Today is the last of April and we hope it will be a credit to a month that has seen better days than the ones it has just gone through.

The United States Supreme Court is still holding up its decision in the anti-trust cases. Probably the court wants to give it to us in broken doses.

This season at Wilmington's seaside resorts will be the greatest in its history. The improvements and preparations are far ahead of any previous season.

The people of Wilmington have that pleased feeling now that Lem Thung has been kept safely from a forced trip to his native China.—Raleigh News and Observer.

People who wish to see the region where roses grow to perfection should see the Holland nurseries at Castle Haynes. The region around Wilmington is the principal portion of the Nation's Garden Spot.

It requires money as well as work to advertise the advantages of Wilmington. Any scheme to bring about development here will depend largely upon whether it is worth spending money to carry it out.

The June number of the National Magazine will contain an elaborate description of the progress and resources of North Carolina. It will occupy 64 pages and it is anticipated with interest throughout the State.

A train robber is a mighty mean man, but what can be thought of the Westerner who stole his wife's "rat" and sold it to get himself a supply of liquor? Some men would sell every hair on their wife's head for a drink.

Inquires the Atlanta Journal: "Why should President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt decline to name those Kentucky triplets?" Why, they have been so upset since the election they can't think of three Democratic names at one time.

Municipal control of harbors in order to conserve the public interests seems to be the accepted idea. In today's Star will be found a remarkable view of that question by a New England railroad magnate. He says it is the correct thing for seaports.

Tomorrow Wilmington will hold an election to choose the five councilmen of her commission government. There are ten candidates and if every voter will cast his ballot for the good of Wilmington as he sees it, that is all we can expect. It is up to the voters, and it is for them to take their choice.

In Wilmington the mayor has authorized a reward of $100 for any information which will lead to conviction in the election fraud imbroglio. They are going about the matter in a business like way, and will no doubt discover facts sought after.—Charlotte News.

OUR RESOURCES FOR MAKING WILMINGTON.

One of our chief resources for making Wilmington is the port's water and rail transportation for making it an unexcelled distributing point, providing the factors for increasing our commerce and building up a great industrial jobbing and retail center. Another is our superb climate and surrounding region of fertile lands that offer us the finest possibilities for trucking and agriculture, unequaled factors in attracting to eastern Carolina thousands of thrifty homeseekers.

This is enough for any live community to go to work upon, so it is not necessary to detail the numerous advantages that will be elements in the making of Wilmington. The two chief factors named are provided for us by nature, but their development depends upon the people of Wilmington. That dvelopment will be great or small, in accordance with the amount of business capacity and enterprise displayed by the business men of this port.

Back of all of Wilmington's advantages and possibilities must be the men of our city, for they must constitute the force that will make Wilmington's resources available and effective. It is for the business men of Wilmington to increase the port facilities for transportation and distribution, bring about the development of our agricultural resources, create business, establish industries, etc.

The one great element in making Wilmington out of the resources and factors at hand is the men of Wilmington. The port and city will be what they make it, and they can make it greater if they will go to work. In order to get to work in a systematic way it is necessary for them to get together. They can do that in an organization, and that organization is already in the field inviting the men of Wilmington to join it and co-operate with it. That invitation must be accepted, and that will be the beginning of the work for Wilmington.

The Chamber of Commerce is the citadel around which we must gatner our army of workers. It is the nucleus of organization, and it already has accomplished much for Wilmington while most of us have been looking on and doing the grunting. Let us stop grunting and do some of the work. The Chamber of Commerce is not only working along commercial and business lines but it has done much for the upbuilding and progress of Wilmington. Whatever it has done is immensely more than thousands of us have done, and it has been don without the help of most of our business men. However, we now have the chance to help by joining the Chamber in its efforts to increase its membership to 500 live men.

The Chamber of Commerce has been doing and is doing a great deal more for Wilmington than most of us contemplate for the moment. With the completion of the 30-foot channel from Wilmington to the sea, it is absolutely necessary that we should have an up-to-date Custom House with adequate facilities for the storage of imports of coffee, molasses, rice and foreign products, which naturally will come to this port on account of its superior advantages. The Chamber has been very active in securing the $300,000.00 appropriation for this new Custom House and is now using every effort to have this amount increased to $500,000.00, with every prospect of success.

The Chamber is devoting its energies to the extension of the inland waterway from Beaufort to Wilmington and this project should be realized in the next few years. This will mean the opening up of a territory which heretofore has been practically closed so far as water development is concerned. It will mean to the citizens of eastern North Carolina, what the Erie Canal has been to New York State and will, on account of lower freight rates from Northern points, be the means of a great development throughout all sections, in which Wilmington will benefit largely.

The Chamber of Commerce always has taken an active part in securing for the city and beach, conventions and annual meetings of the various State organizations, and with a fund which it is hoped can be provided, a still greater effort will be made in this direction. It always has stood for the interests of the retail merchants of the city. In this connection it has done a great work in securing adequate passenger tranportation and as a result the service on all lines has been largely increased in the past few years. The organization of the North Carolina Waterways forts have given the 30-foot project for the Cape Fear river has done more toward bringing Wilmington before the eyes of the nation than perhaps any other agency. The Chamber of Commerce is primarily responsible for this great movement and its efforts have given the 30-foot project an impetus that promises to carry it to completion in the very near future. Some of the immediate results of the Chamber's work in this connection has been to bring about the establishment of three large fertilizer factories and other industries, promoters of which were attracted to Wilmington on account of its increased facilities as a distributing point.

In re-counting what has been accomplished by the Chamber of Commerce during the past few years, it might be said, speaking broadly, that it is not always what such a body accomplishes in results that can be seen as in what it prevents. The very fact that the organization exists helps to prevent abuse of rights and privileges that otherwise might be trampled upon. Some of the important results obtained by the Chamber of Commerce during the past few years have been:

Extension of the Charleston train from Mullins, S. C., to Wilmington.

Organization of the North Carolina Waterways Association and 30-foot project for the Cape Fear river.

Putting on a package car to Hamlet, N. C.

Through passenger connection from New York.

The establishment of a union station to be used by all passenger trains.

Putting on a package car to Goldsboro, N. C.

A new passenger train on the A. & Y. railroad.

Securing an appropriation of $300,000 for a new Custom House.

Putting on a package car to Sanford, N. C.

Securing appropriation of $715,000 for the upper Cape Fear river and 8-foot channel to Fayetteville.

Securing of better freight transportation on the S. A. L. to Hamlet and points beyond, and securing more adequate terminals.

The membership of the Chamber of Commerce since its organization has been composed to a large extent of the essentially commercial and industrial elements of Wilmington on account of the fact that it represents a combination of its membership with that of the old Wilmington Produce Exchange. Its interests have to a great extent been on the line of commerce rather than in the work of that class of citizens usually banded together for town boosting or advertising, and for this reason its energies have been directed to the conservation of the larger interests and development of the port as a gateway.

The remarkable growth of our exports in the past ten years is evidence of the wisdom of this policy. As times change and the people change with them, it is becoming more and more evident that in order to keep in touch with the times and abreast with the pronounced tendency of advertising municipalities and their advantages, we must adopt methous, which, while conservative, will center upon us, by reason of our natural resources, the eyes of the manufacturer who is looking for a location for a plant, bringing with him outside capital; the trucker, who, dissatisfied with the cold North and West, turns his face to the South, with its long growing seasons and abundance of rainfall distributed throughout the year; the tourist escaping the rigors of the Northern Winters, etc. In order to do this work the Chamber asks for the co-operation of the men of Wilmington, and that aid should be given at once.

A STUDY IN SOUTHERN POETRY.

Speaking from a strictly literary point of view, the most notable Southern book of the times is "A Study of Southern Poetry," just issued from the presses of the Neale Publishing Company, New York and Washington. The author is Henry Jerome Stockard, a North Carolina poet of distinction, whose genius and gifts as an author are already broadly recognized while he is yet in his prime. Nevertheless, in the not far distant future there will be a fuller recognition of the high order of talent possessed by this Southern poet, for we cannot claim him for North Carolina. He belongs to the South, and must take his place in the galaxy of the South's brilliant writers whose fame will grow brighter as the years glide by. Be it said, however, there is no lack of appreciation of these Southern authors now, but recognition of their genius will increase for the reason that culture is broadening and growing to the extent that their merits, subject to that evolutionary development, and really a part of it, will be more completely emphasized.

"A Study in Southern Poetry," is not intrinsically a collection of the gems of Southern poetry, but it is more than anything a textbook for use in schools and colleges, while at the same time it essentially must have a prominent place in the library and is destined to popularity among readers who are fond of literature. The author has simply given us a study of Southern poetry, accompanied by biographical sketches of authors and a few of the productions of each, displaying the style and art of their work. A few notable poems of each author are prefaced by a sketch of the respective writers, and in his book Prof. Stockard has made use of material that is broad and representative of Southern poetry producers. The author of this book introduces his subject with a brief yet comprehensive and enlightening treatise on the Art of Poetics, a feature that possesses a distinct educational value. Professor Stockard is eminently capable and we know of no man so well qualified for the work which he has given us. He is scholar, educator and poet, and he brings all these qualifications to bear in the book which the Neale Publishing Company has furnished us for review.

Author Stockard has given us sketches and specimen poems of about fiftq Southern poets, among them being the late John Charles McNeill, that brilliant young North Carolina writer who bloomed forth but to be all too quickly plucked by the hand of relenteless Death. Thanks for the insistence of the publishers, because of the innate modesty of Stockard, we get in the book a brief sketch of him, accompanied by several of his meritorious poems, yet there is missing from them many a gem which we could have selected from among Stockard's elegant verse, not to mention the numerous pretty, charming and appealing productions from his pen. Prof. Stockard is a native of North Carolina, and began his education at Graham High School, finally pursuing a course at the North Carolina University. He is a well known educator, having been a member of the faculties of the University of North Carolina, of Fredericksburg College, (Va.), etc., and at this time he is president of Peace Institute, Raleigh, N. C., with which college for young women he has been connected for ten years. In his educational work he has been too busy to produce poetry, except at intervals, and more's the pity, but he has occasionally contributed to Harper's, the Century Magazine, and other publications. He is also the author of a volume of poems, "Fugitive Lines," and now he gives us "A Study of Southern Poetry," a work for which the South indeed is greatly indebted to him.

It is agreed that "there is a deplorable lack of knowledge as to the Southern poets," but to a large extent Prof. Stockard has produced a work which will enlighten Southerners and appeal to their literary taste and pride. Certainly his work should find a place in all Southern libraries, and as a text book it should be used in all Southern educational institutions. The book can be ordered from booksellers or the Neale Publishing Company, New York and Washington, by whom it will be sent for $2.50 plus 20 cents for postage.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Lee Thum, a Chinaman, has been permitted to re-enter this country. If he is not a part of the black hand, it is all right to let him in.—Richmond Virginian.

A few days ago work was discontinued on the new plant of the American Steel & Wire Company at Corey, Ala., in the manufacturing district of Birmingham. When business men inquired why this had been done, they were informed, indirectly from New York, it is said, that the proposed reduction of the tariff on certain articles of steel and iron would make it impossible for the Corey plant to compete with European manufacturers. Now, the chairman of the ways and means committee of Congress is Hon. Oscar Underwood, representative from the Birmingham district, and he has been particularly influential in shaping the proposed tariff bill which, if enacted, will remove the duty from these article now protected. From these facts, the Birmingham News concludes, and logically we think, that the American Steel & Wire officials, who are allied with the United States Steel Corporation, are endeavoring to intimidate the business interests of Birmingham and thus bring to bear upon Mr. Underwood pressure from his home district so that he will waver in his efforts to secure needed tariff reductions. This is an old game to which special interests always resort when an economic reform in behalf of the people at large and business at large is proposed.—Atlanta Journal.

The Chamber of Commerce now has two very important propositions under consideration, One of them is the construction of a great highway from this city to Asheville, North Carolina, in a single day, a task which would seem impossible had not a similar undertaking proved entirely successful in Iowa, where a modern road traversing the entire State was begun and completed in a single day. It will take time, of course, to get things arranged for this work, but there is every reason to suppose that it will be successful. The other proposition relates to the advertising of the advantages of this city. The scheme proposed is a novel one, but not more novel than good. It may be scarcely necessary to call attention to the amount of money needed. When the Chamber of Commerce has once determined that point, the money will be forthcoming, just as it is always forthcoming these days. No meritorfous cause escapes the benefit of the Charleston spirit, which is finely tempered and extremely effective. As Paul Jones used to say, we have only just begun to fight, but we have been opening the eyes of folks all over the country who had some kind of an idea that conservatism in this old town meant stagnation. They know better now. With the passing of knockers, and there used to be some here, the doers are taking a hand at the wheel and they are not running on any mud banks.—Charleston News and Courier.

GOOD GOVERNMENT — PUBLIC DUTY.

The other day at the primary a man was overheard saying, "Mr.——— has been kind to me; he has been giving me his trade, and I am going to vote for him." Did the man who spoke these words have a high sense of public duty? I answer "No."

I heard last week this story: "A man's son was stricken with a sore disease. He had to carry that boy at once to the hospital in Richmond. He was in straitened circumstances and needed money. A brother of one of the candidates for Mayor in his city came to him unsolicited and put fifty dollars in his hand. He went on to Richmond with his boy; and on the train he said to a friend: "I have always voted against this man and his brother; I do not think they would make good public officers; bue now I am going to vote for them. Common gratitude will make me; I can do nothing else."

Was that man right? I say "No." Why? Is not gratitude a noble thing? Yes, but that man must show his gratitude in another way; he must pay back with something that is his own. He ought not pay him back with his vote, because his vote does not belong to him. A man's vote at last belongs to his city or to his State, and is his own only in trust. Therefore, his vote must be given where it will do most good for the city or State. A man's vote cannot be sold; it cannot be given away. It must be used by the man himslf for the highest purpose.

A good citizen usese his vte for the man wao will make the best officer for the city, and other reason must be second to that. I vote for a man not because he is my friend, not because he is my relative, not because he has done me a personal favor, but because he will make the best official. Pay back favors with favors, pay back money with money, pay back trade with trade; but pay back nothing but faithful public service with your vote. If you are brave enough to vote only for the best man, then, and only then, can you expect your commissioner to be brave and elf sacrificing enough to appoint only the best men.

Let us tomorrow, fellow citizens, be good citizens; voting for men for no other reason than that they shall make the best commissioners; then shall we have Commissioners who will do their public duty, appointing only such men as will make good officers.

ROBERT STRANGE.

CARE IN VOTING.

Many of us would no doubt be surprised to know that in the primary election several hundred votes were lost because of improper marking of ballots. The law respecting regularity is very strict, and every voter should inform himself before going into the booth. The rules for the election Monday are these:

Only one Candidate can be Voted for from each Ward. The Voter must designate his Choice by putting an (X) in the Square opposite the Name of the Candidate...Only Five Candidates can be Voted For...But it is not Necessary to Vote for Five if a Voter does not care to support a full Ticket.

To put a check mark in the square opposite the name of a candidate is not complying with the law, and a ballot so checked is thrown out. If the ballot is defaced it is also thrown out, but a voter has the right to the use of three ballots in preparing his vote.

Let every man see that his ballot is prepared and carefully deposited in the ballot box.

Conditional Pardon Granted Mecklenburg County Man Withdrawn.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., April 29.—Governor Kitchin revokes the conditional pardon of E. C. Caton, of Mecklenburg county, sentenced to 18 months on the roads for immoral conduct and allowed a pardon conditioned on his good behavior last October. Indignant neighbors made substantial charges that he had resumed even more flagrant violations.

New York, April 29.—Three men were instantly killed and nine more are believed to have been mortally wounded late this afternoon when a gang of laborers, who were pulling down a telegraph pole, dropped a guy wire against the third rail of the New York Central Railroad at Spuyten Duyvil. Fifteen had hold of the wire.

AN ALLEGED CHECK FLASHER

Young Man From Newbern Charged With Serious Offense—Relatives Communicated With—Trial Set for Monday.

Charged in several instances with having forged the signatures of the National Biscuit Company and the Coca-Cola Bottling Works to checks which he was indiscriminately flashing in the northern part of the city yesterday afternoon, Robert Smith, a young white man apparently about 18 years of age, is locked up at the police station awaiting trial before the Recorder Monday at the session of his court.

Young Smith had apparently laid his plans well and was working rapidly in the northern part of the city when he came to grief. He first went to the store of Mr. S. E. Sellers, on North Fourth street, and represented himself to be an employe of the National Biscuit Co., and presented a check for $25 in payment for a bill of groceries which he had just purchased, receiving the balance in cash. He gave the name of Frank Aycock and as it was near the end of the month, Mr. Sellers thought Aycock or Smith had just been paid off and that the check was all right. His suspicions were aroused, however, a little later when the boy sent to deliver the groceries reported that there was no such number as that given by Smith. In the meantime, Smith had also paid a visit to the branch store of Mr. S. W. Sanders, on North Foutth street, and had also purchased a small amount of goods and tendered a check for $30 in payment therefor, receiving a balance of something like $25 in cash. This check was signed by the Coca-Cola Bottling Works and made payable to Frank Aycock. Mr. Haskett, manager of the store, took the precaution to call up the Coca-Cola Bottling Works a short time after the young man called and was informed by Mr. W. J. Hutaff that no such check had been issued by that firm. Mr. Hutaff at once went over to Mr. Sanders' branch store, examined the check and pronounced it a forgery. Mr. Haskett at once got busy and with Mr. Hutaff soon overhauled the young man at the store of Thomas & Co., where he was in the act of receiving the money for another spurious check for $43. In the meantime, Mr. Sellers had allowed no grass to grow under his feet and ascertaining that the National Biscuit Co., had no such employe as Aycock, he secured a warrant for the young man's arrest and Policeman A. D. Smith arrived at the Thomas store just in time to serve it and escort the young man to the city prison.

The young fellow appears to be nothing more than a mere boy. He says that he is from Newbern and that his father is engaged in the grocery business at that place. A message was sent to his father last night informing him of his son's trouble and he is expected in Wilmington today.

PICNICS AT LUMINA.

First of Series of Sunday School Outings Begin Tomorrow.

It has been the practice in the past for the different Sunday Schools in town to have picnics at Lumina during the month of May. Lumina is an ideal place for an affair of this kind and every Sunday School in town has taken advantage of the opportunity to give the pupils an outing there. A series of picnics has already been arranged for this season, so that on nearly every week-day during May the children of one or more Sunday Schools will be found enjoying themselves at Lumina.

The first of these picnics will begin tomorrow, when the Wrightsboro Sunday School will go down to the beach at 10 o'clock in the morning to spend the day at Lumnia. The refreshment stand at Lumina will open for the season tomorrow so that the beach will begin to have a Summer-like appearance.

Fayetteville Schools.

Fayetteville is shortly to erect three new modern school buildings. Tuesday of the past week plans were submitted by a number of the leading architects of the State and it was announced yesterday that Architect J. F. Leitner, of this city, had been commissioned to prepare the plans and supervise the construction of the work. The buildings are to be of brick and the plans will be for buildings of the latest character and will include all modern conveniences and appliances. Mr. Leitner has designed some of the best schools in the South including the new school building at Florence, Charleston, Summerton and Walterboro, S. C., the high school at Brunswick and the college at Elberton, Ga., as well as the new high school annex in this city.

Design for Booster Card.

Mr. H. H. Ford, of the U. S. Engineer Office, in this city, has just had printed and suggested to President Evans, of the Commercial Club, a very catchy "Booster Car" for Wilmington. Between parallel lines is the word "Wilmington," beginning with index finger and increasing te size of each letter in the spelling of the name. Under this is the catch phrase so cleverly illustrated above, "Growing All the Time."

REWARD FOR ELECTION FRAUD RECORDS.

The Law against the use of money in Elections in Wilmington is very stringent.

It is unlawful to pay or receive money, or anything of value for votes, for influence, or for work in Elections. It is a violation of the law to offer to pay for another person's time spent in Election work. It is unlawful to promise or to accept any office or position as a compensation for your vote, influence, time or support.

A fund of $1,000.00 has been placed in my hands to be used in the interest of a clean, fair vote, and I offer a reward of $100 to any one who will submit evidence sufficient to convict for any violation of the Election Laws in the coming Election.

AN ELECTION FRAUD CASE

Man from Wilmington, Del., Charged with Bribery—Arrested Yesterday and Will be Carried North Tonight

Benjamin W. Conoway, alias B. C. Way, a white man about 30 years of age, was arrested yesterday afternoon at Delgado by Constable W. B. Savage and Deputy Sheriff Harvey Cox upon a warrant sworn out at the instigation of the Wilmington, Delaware, authorities, in which Conoway is charged with endeavoring to bribe one Jones in an election held in the State of Delaware. Constable Savage leaves tonight on the 7 o'clock train for the north with the prisoner, he having agreed to go without requisition papers.

About the middle of March James A. Quinn came came here from Wilmington, Delaware, and endeavored to locate Conoway, who it was known, had formerly been here. In some manner he had got wind of trouble and left this city. The warrant was sworn out by Quinn against Conoway before Justice of the Peace George Harriss and Constable Savage at once began to put forth unusual efforts to locate his man. The warrant as sworn out by Quinn charges that Benjamin W. Conoway did "offer and promise to pay to one Raymond H. Jones the sum of $10 for the giving of the vote of him, the said Raymond H. Jones, at an election held in the second election district of the second representative district in Sussex county, Delaware, against the provision of Section 7, Article 5 of the constitution of the State of Delaware, the punishment of which is imprisonment of one year or more in the State prison of Delaware, and as affiant is informed and believes, the said Benjamin W. Conoway has fled from the State of Delaware and is now in the county of New Hanover and State of North Carolina."

At the time Conoway was first located he was employed at the Lingo Box Factory. He then went to Bolton where he worked for the Waccamaw Lumber Company; worked in the Green Swamp for awhile, at Warsaw, Calypso and at one or more points in South Carolina. He just returned to the city yesterday and Constable Savage learned of the fact and lost no time in placing Conoway under arrest. As stated above, Deputy Sheriff Harvey Cox accompanied Constable Savage to Delgado. Conoway was found talking to a young lady when the officers walked up and placed him under arrest. He was brought to Wilmington and placed in jail and the Delaware authorities at once communicated with.

Conoway said to Constable Savage that he would not deny that he was the man wanted but if he had to go to jail when he reached Wilmington, Delaware, others would have to do likewise. He said he would return without requisition papers.

Last night a message was received from the Delaware authorities wiring the necessary money to defray all expenses of carrying Conoway to Wilmington, Delaware, and Constable Savage will leave with him tonight.

UNCLE CHARLES' BIG SALE.

On Yesterday With a Rush and Many Articles Disposed of Cheap.

All roads were leading yesterday to Uncle Charles' Pawn Shop, No. 108 Market street, where Messrs. Levy & Moe are just now conducting a great sale of desirable merchandise in every line preparatory to the removal of the firm to new and larger quarters at No. 16 South Front street. This store front on Market street has been covered with an attractive sign, calling attention to the great sale and those who visited there yesterday were certain that from the way things were going the stock would be considerably reduced. But the stock is a large one and many of the desirable things will be held over for this week during which time the firm asks for a call from those interested in saving a few dollars on seasonable and up-to-date goods. They are making a special run on trunks and suit cases and at this season of the year there are some prices that are bound to attract the purchaser.

WILMINGTON BAPTIST UNION

Second Day's Session Marked by Increased Attendance and Interesting and Profitable Discussions—Today's Program.

The second day's session of the Wilmington Baptist Union at Brooklyn church, this city, was marked yesterday by an increased attendance and interesting and profitable consideration of the several topics suggested by the programme. The devotional meeting yesterday morning was led by Rev. R. E. Peele, of Burgaw, a special feature of this service being a request from Mrs. R. S. Atkinson, of Sloop Point, that her husband be remembered in prayer.

Mr. Atkinson is a prominent member of the Association who is desperately ill with pneumonia and he was remembered in a very earnest prayer by the union. The first topic at the mrning hour was "Christ's Missionary Method." It was most ably discussed by Rev. W. B. Rivenbark, of Teachey; J. H. Beck, of Sloop Point, 2:30 o'clock after singing and prayer, spoke in his splendid way upon the subject.

The second topic was "What Kind of Amusement Should Young People Have and Who Should Furnish It." This was interestingly and profitably treated by Revs. F. A. Liles, J. A. Bryson, R. E. Peele and Messrs. Geo. E. Leftwich and D. L. Gore.

The afternoon session convened at held with Riley's Creek church. The The first topic of the afternoon was "The Need of Associational Mission Work." This was discussed by Messrs. Geo. E. Leftwich, D. L. Gore, Rev. F. A. Liles and Rev. W. G. Hall. Rev. R. E. Peele and Rev C. F. Whitlock also made some remarks upon the topic.

The last topic was "Jesus in the Bible." This was very ably discussed by Dr. J. H. Foster. Dr. Foster showed in an eloquent and interesting address that Christ was the chief theme and golden key to the Bible from Genesis to Revelations. Rev. W. G. Hall also spoke upon this topic in a very forceful way.

The next meeting will be a Sunday School convention and will be season need to be awakened to a realiprogramme yesterday was carried out in full and proved very interesting.

Rev. R. E. Peele will preach this morning at Brooklyn church, Rev. W. B. Rivenbark at Southside, and Rev. J. C. Mizell, at Wrightsboro. Rev. A. C. Chaffin is on the programme to preach this evening at Brooklyn church and will be heard with much interest.

ISSUE TWENTY-FIVE WARRANTS

Grocers and Market Men Charged With Violating Ordinance—Cases Will Not Be Tried Until Tuesday.

Quite a stir was created yesterday afternoon in certain portions of the city when the police began to gather in right and left persons who were found not to be complying strictly with the ordinance recently passed by the board of aldermen relative to screening foods. Twenty-five arrests were made upon this charge alone and the cases will be tried before Recorder Furlong Tuesday.

Members of the police force stated yesterday afternoon that they had been instructed by Chief of Police Williams to bring in all persons disregarding the screen ordinance and soon after this order was given market men and grocers in different parts of the city were arrested. Each man was recognized in the sum of $25 for his appearance before the Recorder.

The following white men were arrested: R. C. Fergus, J. B. Neely, Himon Tigen, Stephen Sneeden, J. C. Odham, Levi Bonham, W. W. Wright, J. R. Cronly, J. R. Bell, T. V. Sneeden, Wilson Rogers, T. TO OPEN IN BLAZE OF GLORY

Big Catholic Bazaar This Week Will Attract Hundreds Each Evening—Some of the Features of the Elaborate Affair.

The finishing touches in the arrangements for the magnificent Catholic Bazaar, which will hold forth every evening during the coming week, bginning Tuesday, in the Woolvin Building, on Princess street, were put on yesterday afternoon and now the committees are merely awaiting the crowds, which should certainly be large and liberal.

The bazaar is under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus and is for the benefit of St. Thomas Catholic Church. The hall has been most attractively decorated with flags and the various booths and stands have been made attractive in every way. As one enters the spacious hall, first to greet the eye and tempt the appetite will be the refreshment booth which will be under the capable direction of Mrs. W. B. Schuler with a corps of attractive waitresses. An elegant lunch will be served for 25c., ham sandwiches, 10c., coffee 5c., with strawberries 15c., or strawberries alone 10c.

The candy booth also occupies a prominent place in the hall and this will be in charge of Mrs. E. K. Bryan and a bevy of pretty girl assitants, be to please. The fancy article booth will be offered in lingerie will be in charge of Miss Maggie Price and assistants who will endeavor to please even the most fastidious purchaser. Then there will be a booth for men and boys and where this class of humanity may call and find profit and pleasure. Mrs. W. J. Bergen will be in charge and she will have a number of assistants, whose delight it will Barber and others, while an up-to-date will be in the capable charge of Mrs. Mary Sweeney and assistants and here will be offered a great many things that will appeal to all. The baby booth will be presided over by Mrs. Pae; the domestic booth by Mrs. Parber and thers, while an up-to-date cool drink stand will be in charge of Mrs. DeKoner and assistants. The fish pond promises to be a source of never-ending amusement for those who cast a line there. Miss Kate Donlan will be in charge assisted by Mr. John Hines, who will provide the tackle and bait.

Then in addition to all these in which there will be something doing every minute there will be cigar stand, music stand and the exhibition platform where various articles will be practically demonstrated not only for the pleasure but for the profit of those who attend.

The country store is mentioned last but it will be by no means the least of the merry attractions for this big week. It will be in charge of Misses Nannie Watters, Mary Hayden and Madeline Corbett, assisted by Clerks W. A. Peschau, Herbert O'Neill, Hugh Hines and Ed Hines.

All ladies and gentlemen in charge and assisting will be appropriately dressed. The best of order and decorum is promised by the managers of the fair and patrons are assured of the best of treatment in every way.

The committee feels especially grateful for the contribution yesterday of a very handsome refrigerator, given by Messrs. Wm. E. Springer & Co., and which will be added to the list of capital prizes.

Announcement of the full opening will be given in Monday evening's Dispatch and the Star of Tuesday morning. There will be no entrance fee and everybody is invited to come and bring a friend.

AT CAROLINA BEACH.

Rapid Progress on New and Handsome Pavilion—The Outlook.

Elaborate preparations are being made by Capt. John W. Harper for the greatest season yet enjoyed at Carolina Beach. For the past several months workmen have been engaged in overhauling the property at the beach and the track and equipment of the "Harper Short-Line" from the pier to the resort. There is now being completed one of the largest and most handsome pavilion on the South Atlantic Coast, announcement of which was made several weeks ago. The work has been going on steadily and the pavilion will be ready to be thrown open to the public in a week or ten days. The music and dancing this year at Carolina Beach will be a feature and beginning about June 1st, Carolina will be the mecca for hundreds of young people each day.

The steamer Wilmington, "a thing of beauty and a joy forever," recently came off the ways spick and span and it will have lost none of its old-time popularity when Capt. Harper calls "play ball" now within a short time.

MARINE RAILWAY FACILITIES.

Masters, Mates and Pilots Take Decisive Action on the Subject.

The matter of the absolute lack of marine railway facilities at this port was considered at length at the regular meeting of Cape Fear Harbor No. 81, Masters, Mates and Pilots, last night. Members of the Harbor are in position to know of the great need of these facilities at the port and they have set in motion the forces that are expected to bring about a remedy for the conditions as they now exist and which were recently touched upon in these columns. It was shown at the meeting that every year thousands of dollars are sent away from the port for the reason that there are now no facilities for hauling out vessels here and the Masters, Mates and Pilots at their meeting last night resolved to use their every influence, first to get local capital interested in a marine railway here, and if this cannot be done, then outside capital will be invited to establish an enterprise, the need of which the port has sadly felt for several years.

Cape Fear Harbor, at the meeting last night, discussed a number of other matters of importance, action having been deferred for further consideration and action. Cape Fear Harbor is now in flourishing condition and hopes in the way of encouraging the establishment of a marine railway here to be of real service to the port.

CITY ELECTION TOMORROW

Five Commissioners Will be Elected. Man Receiving Highest Vote Becomes Mayor—Large Vote is Expected.

The first regular election to be held under the Wilmington commission government act will occur tomorrow and indications point to one of the largest, if not the largest, vote cast in a city election since the negro was eliminated from politics. The total registration numbers practically 3,000 and those who have kept in close touch with the political situation say but very few of those who have registered will fail to vote.

At this election five commissioners are to be elected and will serve for a period of two years. The candidate receiving the highest vote becomes mayor and as such officer is head of the department of public affairs. Other departments are, Accounts and Finance, Public Safety, Streets, Wharves and Public Improvements, and Water and Sewerage, and when the council is organized one member will be placed at the head of each department. While the present city officers go out of existence next Saturday and the commissioners will be sworn in they will not hold their first meeting under the provisions of the act until the following Monday. The last regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen will be held tomorrow.

At one time the public appeared to be paying but little attention to what was being done and did not appear to feel very much interest in the election, but such has by no means been true during the past week, for each day the campaign has waxed warmer and the excited crowds that are generally found standing upon the street corners shortly before and election where there is a warm contest have been very much in evidence here. The prevailing opinion is that no election here in years has been as doubtful as the one to be held Monday. Both factions are confident of winning, with the chances slightly favoring certain of the candidates in several of the wards. The Australian ballot system has injected a great deal of doubt as to the result.

Just what will be done Monday in regard to challenging voters who have not paid their poll tax as the law requires—and the attorney general of North Carolina has held in this election it is the 1909 tax—or are disqualified for some other cause, is not known, but the fact is known that a list of the names of all persons who paid their poll tax has been secured and also a list of all the voters for the purpose of seeing who have not complied with this constitutional requirement. The law under the commission government act is very stringent and makes it a misdemeanor for an illegal voter even to offer to vote. The failure to comply with any one of the requirements constituting a legal voter is a misdemeanor and the minimum punishment is ten days in prison and fine of $100, the maximum being 90 days in prison and fine of $500.

That portion of the commission bill relating to voting is as follows:

Section 16. (a) Any person who shall agree to perform any services in the interest of any candidate for any office provided for in this Act, in consideration of any money or other thing of value, or who does perform any service in the interest of any candidate for any office in consideration of any money or other thing of value, upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than $25, nor exceeding $300, or be imprisoned in the county jail not less than five days nor more than 30 days.

(b) Any person offering to give a bribe, either in money or other consideration, to any elector for the purpose of influencing his vote at any election provided for in this Act, or any elector entitled to vote at any such election receiving or accepting any such bribe or other consideration, or any person making false answer to the provisions of this Act, relative to his qualifications to vote at any elections; or any person wilfully voting or offering to vote at any such election who has not been a resident of this State for two years, or of the county of New Hanover for six months or the ward or precinct in which he offers to vote for four months, or who has not paid his poll tax as provided for by the law of North Carolina, or who is not twenty-one years of age, or who is not a citizen of the United States, or knowing himself not to be a qualified voter of such precinct where he offers to vote; or any person knowingly procuring, aiding or abetting any violation hereof; shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500, and be imprisoned not less than ten days nor more than ninety days.

Section 17. It shall be unlawful for any candidate for office or any officer of the city, directly or indirectly, to give or promise any person or persons any office, position, employment, benefit, or anything of value, for the purpose of influencing or obtaining the political support, aid or vote, of any person or persons; and any such person committing a breach hereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500, or be imprisoned in the county jail not less than ten days nor more than ninety days, or both.

Every elective officer of the city shall, within thirty days after qualifying, file with the City Clerk, and publish at least once in a daily paper of the city his sworn statement of all his election and campaign expenses, showing by whom the same were paid, and what was the consideration for such payment.

Any violation of the provisions of the preceding paragraph shall be a misdemeanor, and be a ground for removal from office.

There was much speculation yesterday as to what detectives were doing in the city. It was known positively that one detective from Washington City was here and it was generally reported that two others were here from Norfolk.

The County Election Board has announced that the polls will be open Monday morning at 8 o'clock and will close at sunset, which is just a few minutes before 7 o'clock. There is quite a number of people who are of the opinion that the election is on Tuesday, but the commission act says the 1st day of May.

The horse began running about Third and Princess and dashed down the street to Water where he fell in turning south into Water street. He managed to get up but was caught before he proceeded far down Water street.

BEFORE THE RECORDER.

Henry Myers, the negro who temporarily made his escape from Constable "Tuck" Savage several nights since, and who was later arrested in Lumberton and brought back to Wilmington, was tried before Recorder Furlong yesterday morning under two warrants, one for committing an assault upon Dora Armstrong with a deadly weapon, and for carrying a concealed weapon. He was convicted in both cases and in each got a sentence of six months on the roads. Several other defendants were before the recorder but the charges were of a most trivial nature.

COTTON MAKES SHARP ADVANCE

Due to Bullish Statistics Received on the Market—New High Records for Movement—High Records for Movement.

New York, April 29.—Prospects for continued unsettled and wet weather in the South over Sunday and the bullish statistics caused another sharp advance in the cotton market today, with old crop positions making new high records for the movement. The close was very steady, but a few points off from the best on the old crop positions, last prices showing a net gain of 7 to 10 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1@6 points, in response to higher cables. There was some irregularity as a result of realizing and local selling for a week-end reaction, but prices eased off only 2 or 3 points, and following the western belt forecast which suggested that the storm area reported in the Central West late yesterday was moving eastward and would cause a further delay in planting, the list firmed up on a renewal of bull support and active covering. The advance was led by the old crop positions and May contracts shot up from 15.19 to 15.36 in about four sales. July sold at 15.40, or within eight points of the high record made last December, and old crop positions generally showed net gains of from 13 to 20 points during the middle of the morning. At this level the short interest was reassured to some extent by the appearance of selling orders in the hands of the leading bull brokers and prices eased off from the top. The new crop, however, while it did not advance so sensationally and, at the best point was only 8 to 10 above the closing figure of last night, was relatively steady in the late trading, and last prices were within a point of the top.

Receipts at the ports today 12,017 bales against 6,015 last week and 9,785 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 6,454 bales against 2,500 last year, and at Houston 1,371 against 1,110 last year.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points higher; middling uplands 15.45; middling gulf 15.70; no sales. Futures opened steady and closed very steady

GAINS MADE IN STOCK MARKET

Operations Were Generally Bullish Throughout Day—Distinct Change in Sentiment Noted Yesterday.

New York, April 29.—Operators in the stock market were more generally bullish today than at any other time for several weeks, and the market made a striking exhibition of strength. The demand for stocks was so vigorous as to cause substantial gains. A number of issues made gains of more than two points, and nearly everything in which there was any amount of business was established at a higher price range.

It was apparent that there had been a distinct change in sentiment, which seemed to be based to some extent on the recent strength and activity in the bond market. The spread of remarkably good crop weather over the country in conjunction with the bright promises which have been contained in crop reports to date, brought to bear another decidedly bullish factor. The continued ease of money furnished still another incentive for the accumulation of dividend-paying stocks.

Trading in the bond market continued active and prices were firm. Total sales, par value, $2,078,000.

United States government bonds unchanged on call on the week. Total sales of stocks, 230,100 shares.

INFORMATION FOR VOTERS.

To the Star:

A spirit of fairness causes me to bring before the public one or two points which will be of interest to many followers of the situation in connection with the election of Commissioners to be held next Monday. There was circulated in the mails a circular signed by the GOVERNMENT LEAGUE, THE YOUNG MEN'S LEAGUE, containing a SLATE of names which the Leagues say they have selected to support and asking the voters to co-operate with them in their movement. It was also stated in the circular that other affiliated organizations (NOT MENTIONED) concur in the slate. Why didn't the two leagues mention openly the other alleged organizations supposed to be connected with them instead of having their leaving their names in the DARK?

Your paper secured a copy of the Leagues' circular. It was published as an item of political interest. My remarks are brought forth as a reply to the circular. They are deemed pertinent to the situation and may give some information as to some of the ruling spirits of the two Leagues, which information the Leagues for some reason unassigned by them have failed to give thus far.

A meeting was held some evenings ago either by the Government League, the Business Men's League, the Young Men's League, or both, or all. It is presumed that the slate as announced in the circular as published was decided upon even before the meeting as several gentlemen known to be friendly to candidates other than all those mentioned in the slate were requested to leave the hall. This slate so I am informed, was cooly adopted by the leagues without even giving other candidates an opportunity to declare their positions as to law enforcement and the preservation of order in the city, cardinal principles of the leagues, and which possibly and doubtless are the same basic principles of the candidates who were not so fortunate as to be the choice of the leagues.

Now as to some of those connected with the Leagues mentioned. These organizations for some unknown reason seem to have carefully refrained from workings of the organization. Is this reticence on their part caused from fear that they will fail to secure the support they desire if they yet the public know the names of their workers? At the meeting mentioned above, among others, I know that there were present MR. J. ALLEN TAYLOR, president of the Chamber of Commerce; J. O. CARR, ESQ., a lawyer who does not reside in Wilmington but now lives at Carolina Heights and not a city tax payer in spite of his seeming interest in local politics; Mr. L. B. Rogers, Jos. W. Little, Esq., prominent in the workings of the Young Men's League and who is said to be materially interested in the result of the election of the above mentioned slate to the extent of benefitting himself politically; Mr. W. A. McGirt, Mr. Hugh MacRae, who forsook Wilmington several years ago to make his legal residence at Washington, D. C.; Mr. J. D. Fergus, Mr. W. H. Sprunt, and others.

The above information is given merely to throw some light on the two leagues which have not announced the names of some of their principal workers heretofore. This card is submitted in the hope and confident belief that VOTERS will not accept blindly and without thinking a full slate of names suggested by the would-be CZARS of Wilmington among whom might be suggested the present President of the Chamber of Commerce; a lawyer who has shaken the dust of the city from his feet so as to reside at Carolina Heights, and another lawyer who is quoted as desiring political preferment in the form of the City Attorneyship as his result of his work in the Leagues. FAIR DEAL SUGGESTED.

The Morning Star, City.

Dear Sir:—Within sight of the goal and shouts of victory ringing in one's ears, developments of the past few days have caused us to look up, and take notice.

The cry raised that the people should decide the question as to who would best represent them in the new form of government, that they ought to think and act for themselves, seems to be after all, merely a "cry" and nothing more.

The "cry" about which we have heard so much of late is evidently still unbroken, simply changing hands, whether the new owners will be better than the old, only time can tell. Ten good representative citizens, are the choice of the community, doubts freely expressed, relative to their capabilities, but all agree, that a good and wise selection has been made, conducive to the welfare of the city. Within the past few hours, we are notified, the problem has been worked out, the question has been settled, we no longer need to puzzle over the choice of selection, the slate has been written, the men selected, although the election does not come off until May 1st. Pay your money gentlemen and walk up, another case of the blind following the blind.

The writer has no acquaintance with any of the candidates, except through the public print, belongs to no party, cares nothing if all intoxicants were swept forever away, but in justice to an intelligent public, such as we boast of in the city of Wilmington, tell us why such men as "Tiencken," "Merritt," "P. Q. Moore," and "West," are made scapegoats. What have these men done that makes them ineligible as city officials, and in what qualification and fitness do the other excel in; why are these four men disqualified, we have a right to know, they aspire to be public officers, and are open to public criticism. If there's anything wrong with them we don't want them. If not then be consistent and give them a fair deal "consistency thou art a jewel." T. K.

ceived and framed before business took on its prsent shapes, before politics got the methods it has recently developed. And they must be changed to correspond with the actual facts. Our law was developed in a day of free and various individual contracts, as unlike as possible to our present day of alliance and combinations. Many of the very terms of our law seem antiquated and meaningless as applied to modern transactions, and the liberal 'would make the punishment fit the crime.'

"Similarly, in politics, law and fact, theory and practice do not jibe. We still revere 'representative government' but we are forced to admit, when we scrutinize it closely, that by one means or another the governments we actually have been deprived of their representative character. They are filtered too fine through the sieve of secret caucuses and other machine processes. We, the people, have not free access enough to our own agencies, or direct enough control over them. We liberals mean, by one change or another, to make our governments genuinely popular and representative again. We are cutting away anonalies not institutions. We are clearing away the jungle and letting in the pure light and air—not destroying the wholesome forest or creating waste places, where there was produceive growth."

Eppa Hunton, of Richmond, Va., closed the speech making of the evening with a fitting tribute to Dr. Alderman as head of the State's greatest institution of learning, and to Governor Wilson, as a son of Virginia whose leadership in National affairs will assure opportunity to all and advantage to none, and who stands out as a "delightful and promising hope to the entire Democracy."

CASE OF "BOSS" COX.

Motion to Squash Indictment Results in Lengthy Hearing.

Cincinnati, April 29.—A motion to quash the indictment charging perjury against George B. Cox, the Republican leader, consumed almost the entire day in Judge Dickson's court today, and at the conclusion the hearing on the motion was carried over until Monday.

Lively tilts between attorneys for Cox and those for the prosecutor's office were frequent. Judge Dickson's first action in the case was an order striking from the records the affidavit charging himself with bias and prejudice. This was followed by a demand from Cox's attorneys that the prosecutor name which indictment Cox be tried upon.

Judge Dixon took this matter under advisement and then called for arguments on the motion to quash.

Attorney Lawrence Maxwell for Solicitor General of the United States, argued the defense side of the motion, and at the conclusion of the argument court adjourned until Monday, when Prosecutor Henry T. Hunt will present the side of the prosecution.

WELLS-FARGO EARNINGS.

As Told by Expert Accountant at St. Paul Investigation.

St. Paul, Minn., April 29.—Continuing the investigation of the Wells Fargo Express Company today, Attorney General George T. Simpson introduced evidence tending to show that the company enjoys an earning ability equal to that of any other company in the United States.

While G. W. Hillman, expert accountant for the State, was on the witness stand, Mr. Simpson asked:

"Assuming that the Wells-Fargo Co., should today go out of business as an express company, withdraw all its agents and continue to live on the money invested, what per cent. could it annually pay on capital stock?"

"Seven per cent." replied Mr. Hillman.

Evidence was introduced to show that by paying the railroads 55 per cent. of gross receipts for transporting parcels and packages the company could earn approximately 19 per cent. on its investment.

MEXICAN REVOLUTION.

Government Officials Throw Deplorable Condition of Country.

Mexico City, April 29.—Without attempting to conceal from themselves the fact that their country is in a most deplorable condition as the result of the revolution, it is with increased complacency that government officials now discuss the situation. Almost without exception they believe the peace conference to be held between Francisco Carabajal of the Supreme Court, the accredited commissioner of the government, and the commissioner of Francisco Madero will result in terms, if not agreeable, at least satisfactory to the rebel leader, and that hostilities in the North will not be resumed. But if this should prove not to be the case, if Madero should wish to continue fighting, there remains Reyes to look to and so the complacency is manifested. Back of the recalling of Gen. Bernardo Reyes there may be a political significance deeper than is apparent. It may be that there is an understanding that in time he is to be sent along a rother devious rcute to the presidency; but the immediate result of his returning has to do with the War Department. As its chief it is admitted he can install more enthusiasm in the army than can any other man in Mexico, and if Madero wants to continue the revolt he will, under the direction of Reyes, find opposition greater than he has yet encountered. This is the popular opinion and official Mexico, considering that Madero is in a predicament, is inclined to chuckle, although discreetly.

During the week the rebels have added considerably to their treasury by forced loans in the State of Mexico, only a few hours ride from the National capital. From Francisco Ramos, the owner of the hacienda Atlapango $10,000 was secured, from Juan Martinez, owner to the tlahuac, $5,000, from Adrian Sanchez, owner of Ayotzingo, $5,000, and from Mauricio Fabre $10,000. These properties are in the neighborhood of Chalco. The government has been asked to send additional troops.

ENGINE TURNED TURTLE.

Three Caught Under Southern Engine Near Greensboro and Injured.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Greensboro, N. C., April 29.—While taking an engine to Climax, N. C., on the C. F. & Y. V. road this afternoon, Engineer Rufus B. Ferrall was caught beneath the engine, when it overturned, some three and a half miles from the city, and he was imprisoned for three hours before he could be rescued from the position. Both of his arms and one leg were broken. He showed wonderful nerve and directed the work of rescue. He is now in the hospital. It is believed he will recover. Fireman C. N. Conrads and Conductor Steve Crews were only slightly injured. The Mount Airy train was delayed six or eight hours. Ferrall has a wife and several children.

O'GORMAN IS HONORED.

Tendered a Dinner by New York York Manhattan Club.

New York, April 29.—Two hundred and fifty members of the Manhattan Club gave a dinner tonight to their fellow member, the recently elected United States Senator James A. O'Gorman. Among others present was William F. Sheehan, a defeated candidate for the Senate. It was explained that it was a club affair, Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammay Hall, who is not a member of the club did not appear. Supreme Court Justice Victor J. Dowling presided.

Congressman Martin W. Littleton who was a late and self-announced candidate for the senatorship, came up from Washington for the dinner.

FORMER INSPECTOR JAILED.

On Serious Charges Involving Several Young Girls.

New Orleans, April 29.—Edward S. Whitaker, former inspector of police of New Orleans, who has been in the Parish prison for the past month in default of $35,000 bond, on serious charges involving young girls, was today denied a change of venue by Judge Cheretien, of the criminal district court. Many prominent citizens of the city testified that the feeling against Whitaker is so strong that he could not get a fair trial in New Orleans parish, but after hearing threescore persons as witnesses, the court overruled the motion of Whitaker's attorney. The former police chief probably will be tried next week.

BOTH GUILTY AT WINSTON.

F. G. Southern and Son Sentenced for Murder Yesterday.

Winston-Salem, N. C., April 29.—F. G. Southern and his 12-year-old son, Herman, today were convicted of the killing of the former's son-in-law, John Wall, near Pilot Moutain last November. Southern was sentenced to nine years in State's prison, while the son was given four months in the reformatory. The killing was the result of a dispute over the storing of tobacco in the basement of Wall's home.

Birmingham, Ala., April 29.—The insurgent members of the Tennessee Legislature, who have been in Birmingham for the past two weeks, reached a decision today, it is stated, to remain here until May 8th, at which time the general election board of Tennessee will name new election commissioners. Whether they will continue their stay here, after that date, it was asserted, depends largely on the legislative situation at Nashville.

Cambridge, Mass, April 29.—Victor L. Berger, socialist congressman from Milwaukee, Wis., told the members of the Harvard Socialist Club tonight that another five years would see twenty socialist Congressmen at Washington and that the second great party of the country in four or five years would be the socialist party. "This country is going to take the lead in socialism as it does in everything else," said the congressman.

New York, April 29.—William Queal, of Alexandria Bay, again defeated Alfred Shrubb, the English runner in a ten-mile race here tonight, winning by about 25 yards. Three laps from the finish Queal jumped out and Shrubb was unable to catch him. Time 52 minutes, 15 seconds.

MISS WISE SERVANT.

She Was Too Well Posted to Suit the New York Woman.

"Some girls may be green and easily imposed upon," said the woman, "but just as many more can give their employers points on law. The girl that came to my house the other day from an employment agency knew more in a minute about the rights of employer and employed than I would know in a year. About the first thing she did was to look out at that big hole in the ground at the other end of the lot, where they are preparing to build. She said:

"'If I should break any dishes while that building is going up you couldn't make me pay for them.'

"I asked why not, and she informed me that a girl working in a building that is likely to be shaken by blasting is protected by the same rule that governs employees in a dining car. Owing to the insecurity they are allowed $20 a month for breakage. Dishes valued at less than $20 may be smashed with impunity. She gave me a printed account of the trouble of two friends who had thrashed that matter out in court and had been sustained in their contention for a twenty dollar leeway. I didn't employ that girl. I don't want to impose upon any girl, but I didn't want to hire one who knows that she can smash my best dishes up to $20 worth and get off without paying damages."—New York Press.

ANCIENT BRIDGES.

Some Built Before the Christian Era Still Standing In China.

Suspension bridges which were built in the time of the Han dynasty (202 B. C. to 220 A. D.) are still standing, striking examples of oriental engineering skill. According to historical and geographical writers of China, it was Shang Lieng, Kaen Tsu's chief of command, who undertook to construct the first public roads in the Flowery empire.

At that time it was almost impossible for the province of Shense to communicate with the capital. Lieng took an army of 10,000 workmen and cut great gorges through the mountains, filling up the canyons and valleys with the debris from his excavations. At places where deep gorges were traversed by large and rapidly flowing streams he actually carried out his plan of throwing suspension bridges, stretching from one slope to the other.

These crossings, appropriately styled "flying bridges" by early Chinese writers, are high and dangerous looking in the extreme. At the present day a bridge may still be seen in the Shense which is 400 feet long and is stretched over a chasm more than 1,000 feet deep. How those early engineers erected such a structure with the tools and appliances at their command is a mystery which will probably never be explained.

Birds and Insect Life.

Men of science are generally agreed that birds are nature's great check on the excess of insects and that they maintain the balance between plant and insect life. Ten thousand caterpillars, it has been estimated, could destroy every blade of grass on an area of cultivated land. The insect population of a single cherry tree infested with aphides has been estimated by a prominent entomologist at no less than 12,000,000. The bird population of cultivated country districts has been estimated at from 700 to 1,000 per square mile. This is small compared with the number of insects, yet as each bird consumes hundreds of insects every day the latter are prevented from becoming the scourge they would be but for their feathered enemies.—Harper's Weekly.

A Paper Restaurant.

Hamburg, Germany, has an eating house made of paper. Its walls are composed of a double layer of paper stretched on frames and impregnated with a fire and water proof solution. A thin wooden partition affords further protection from the inclemency of the weather. Roofs and walls are fastened together by means of bolts and hinges so that the entire structure may be taken apart and put together again. The dining room itself measures 30 by 6 meters and is capable of accommodating 150 people. There are twenty-two windows and four skylights, and the heating is done by two isolated stoves. A side erection contains the manager's office, kitchen, larder and dwelling room. The total cost was $350.—Detroit Free Press.

One might almost be led to believe that this community had never seen Pure Ice until this good year 1911.

A great man once said "there is nothing new under the sun" and this is so to a great extent when it comes to the manufacture of ice.

Now, as a matter of fact, The Independent Ice Company has been for ten years and is still making as pure, as clean, as healthful to use ice as can be found in all North Carolina. We defy anyone to prove to the contrary. Our prices are as low as the lowest. We give full guaranteed weight. Our service is the best Wilmington ever had. We have a polite, accommodating corps of officials who will thank any one to report any act of neglect or discourtesy on the part of our wagon drivers or helpers.

LIBERAL IMMIGRATION LAWS

Views of President Charles W. Eliot and Andrew Carnegie Opposing Unwarranted Restrictions of Immigration.

In view of the recent very drastic law introduced in the United States Senate, affecting foreign immigration, by Mr. Overman, of North Carolina, anything bearing on the subject will be read with interest. The following letters from President Chas. W. Eliot and Andrew Carnegie, which were recently included in the Congressional Record, upon motion of Mr. Bennett, of New York, are sent by a friend as presenting the "other side of the case." The letters are as follows, the first from President Eliot, the second from Mr. Carnegie:

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 10, 1911.

My Dear Sir:—Observing that the advocates of restricting immigration are again active before Congress, I beg leave to state to you as President of the National Liberal Immigration League, some of the reasons which convince many disinterested patriotic Americans that no further restrictions on immigration are desirable.

1. The common, almost universal, fact in our country is a scarcity of labor. The same complaint is heard from farms, factories, and shops all over the country. Immense areas in the United States are not settled at all, or are very sparsely inhabited. From New England to California the crops are not thoroughly gathered and marketed, because there are not hands enough to do the work. In all the great industries, the desirable development is hindered not by black of of capital, but by lack of workmen. Not only is an adequate supply of skilled labor lacking, but unskilled labor is also scarce. In some spots, or at some moments, a temporary over-supply of labor may occasionally exist in large cities; but this temporary difficulty is soon cured by a re-distribution of the laboring population. There is always a considerable number of unemployed people, but they are chiefly persons who are disabled, incompetent, or unwilling, or they belong to trades which, because of climatic conditions or seasonal fashion, do not afford continuous employment during the entire year. One may see in the large cities many poor people; but they constitute only a small fraction of the population; and for the most part it is not low wages that have made them poor, but drink, drugs, disease, or premature death of the breadwinner of the family. The two main facts about the American industries are, first, that labor is scarce; and secondly, that wages have been high relatively to those prevailing in other countries, that they have risen very much within the last 50 years and are still rising.

2. There is almost universal assent to the proposition that every healthy, honest laborer who comes hither from other lands contributes appreciably to the productiveness and wealth of the country. Lately, however, there is a disposition to make a distinction between the skilled and the unskilled immigrant, and between the immigrant who comes to stay and the immigrant who comes for a few years to lay up money enough to enable him to live comfortably in his fatherland; but even an unskilled laborer who works faithfully makes an addition to the wealth of the country, although not so large an addition as the skilled laborer; and every immigrant who after a few years returns to his native land with his savings must have done good work for the country during his entire stay here, else he would not have saved money enough to go home with contentedly. The unskilled laborer who only lives a few years in the United States is no exception to the general rule that every healthy faithful laborer is profitable to the country, and that more labor is needed in every branch of American industry.

3. An educational test to resist immigration is both misdirected and untimely. It is misdirected, because ability to read is no proof of either health or character. Many entirely illiterate persons are vigorous, honest, and of sound judgment in affairs and in the conduct of life. It is untimely, because the right moment to apply an educational test is on admission to the suffrage, not on admission to the country. In all races the most dangerous criminals come from classes that can read and write, and not from the illiterate. A test founded on ability to read will not keep out the worst criminals, and will furnish no safe guide in action to the officers charged with the execution of the existing restrictive laws.

4. All attempts to exclude healthy and honest immigrants are inconsistent with the rightful generosity of freemen towards people who wish to be free, and of working people whose conditions of labor are favorable towards people in other lands whose conditions of labor are less favorable, and who are ambitious to improve their environment by going to free America. The present people of the United States have themselves been immigrants into the fresh continent within generations still recent; and they ought to shrink, and do shrink, from imposing hard conditions of admission to the country on the newer immigrants who are ambitious to follow their example. It is the mission of the United States to spread freedom and democracy throughout the world by teaching as many men and women as possible in freedom's largest home how to use freedom rightly through practice in liberty under law.

5. Some American publicists have been disquieted about immigration, because the new immigration is to some extent different from the old as regards race and religion. They apprehend that these newer immigrants will not settle among the people who have been longer in the United States; but rather will live by themselves in separate quarters of towns and cities, and there maintain their social and religious peculiarities. This apprehension is based on a belief which has no foundation in fact, namely that the numerous races which came to this country during the 19th century have formed, or may be expected to form, a racial amalgam or blend. It is obvious that very little blending has thus far taken place. The different races remain essentially distinct, not geographically, but socially, and in many cases industrially. The process of assimilation begins with children born in this country and sent to American schools, and is even then very slow, particularly as regards intermarriage. Experience during the 19th century show that real assimilation will take centuries; and that amalgamation, or blending of races extraordinarily slow, but of doubtful issue as to the strength and viability of the offspring. In short, the different races already in this country live beside eacn other, and all produce in time good citizens of the Republic; but they do not blend. The probability is that the 20th century will exhibit the same methods and results in a population become somewhat more various racially.

6. Some religious people fear that the Catholic church will become unduly powerful in the United States, if races which have long been Catholic continue to pour into the country immigrants by the hundred thousand, who are vigorous, industrious, frugal, and prolific. Whatever gains the Catholic church may make in this way under a regime of religious toleration, that church is fairly entitled to. Even the extreme Protestants who feel this apprehension shrink from declaring that their motive in advocating restrictions of immigration is fear of the Roman church; and, indeed, for the United States to try to shut out Roman Catholics by restrictions not avowedly for that purpose, would be an extraordinarily insincere and cowardly performance, at the very moment when in Europe the Catholic church is steadily dispossessed in Catholic countries of the control it once exercised; and when in the United States the effects of democracy on the Catholic church are plainly much wider and deeper than the effects of the Catholic church on either American governments or American society. To restrict immigration because for the time being, immigration is more Catholic than Protestant would be the public confession of lack of faith in the efficacy of religious toleration and the independence of church and State as bulwarks of political freedom.

7. Finally, it has been lately maintained by some persons of humane proclivities that America is no longer needed as a refuge for people of other lands who think themselves politically or industrially unfortunate at home. If this were really the case, the present extraordinary migrations of the European races would come to a natural end. People who exile themselves and encounter all the risks of a new start in life in a strange land must have some strong motive for such extraordinary conduct. At any rate, the decision of the question whether America is still needed as a refuge may best be left to the decision of the people most interested, to the people who, being poor or hopeless at home, think they see brighter prospects and an animating hope in the New World. The people now occupying the United States know that those prospects are brighter, and they are themselves animated by a great hope, the hope that freedom nourishes. The American people, if they get a chance to express themselves, will not be found in favor of shutting the door on any honest and healthy persons who believe they can better themselves by coming to America, and are enterprising enough to assume the inevitable risks.

The arguments against further restrictions of immigration are essentially arguments to the sense of gratitude, justice, and generosity in the actual Americans of today.

Sincerely yours,
CHARLES W. ELIOT.

East Ninety-First Street, New York, February 2, 1911.

Edward Lauterbach, Esq., President National Liberal Immigration League, 150 Nassau Street, New York City.

Dear Sir:—Responding to yours of December 31st.

Bismarck once made the statement tuat America was draining Germany of its best blood. This was at a time when immigration was at high flood from Germany. In recent years it averages less than 30,000 people annually. One year it was 27,000 of which our fortunate Republic obtained 26,000, the remaining 1,000 being scattered over other lands.

A first-class, healthy man slave was worth $1,500, when men were bought and sold. Every German man that arrives here is worth a great deal more. So it is with the Scotch, the Irish and the English, and not less so with the Scandinavians and the healthy, able-bodied men of good character, of other nationalities.

The importations of human beings are the most valuable of all imports. With a population in our territory which does not greatly exceed 30 per square mile, while Belgium has nearly 600 per square mile and England about the same, it would pay us to give a premium for every able-bodied man or woman of good character that could be induced to come here.

The best test of the value of the immigrant lies in the fact that a working man and his wife have the ambition to better their condition so strongly implanted that they save sufficient money for their passage to settle in the land "where one man's privilege is every man's right."

Let the objectors to opening our gates to able-bodied immigrants of good character reflect where our country would have been except for that invaluable element.

Very truly yours,
ANDREW CARNEGIE.

TOLL OF TUBERCULOSIS.

National Association Reports High Death Rate From Consumption.

New York, April 29.—Statistics showing how serious a problem tuberculosis is to the ordinary church congregation were published today by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, in a bulletin on Tuberculosis Day:

From reports received from over 725 churches, with a membership of over 312,000 communicants of twenty denominations, and from 208 cities and towns in 12 States in various parts of the country, out of nearly 7,000 deaths in 1910 over 700, or 10.4 per cent were caused by tuberculosis. This means 2.24 deaths for every thousand members or communicants.

While the percentage of deaths from tuberculosis as compared with other diseases is not higher in the churches, according to these figures, than in the country at large, the tuberculosis death rate, as shown by the church returns, is higher per thousand communicants than that for the general population in the Registration Area of the United States, which the Census Bureau gave as 1.67 in 1909.

"The National Association," the bulletin says, "does not, however, consider the statistics received from ministers comparable from the point of view of accuracy with those reported by the Bureau of the Census. A sufficient number of returns from a great variety of churches have been received, nevertheless, to indicate that one of the most serious social problems the ordinary church has to consider is that of the devastation of its membership by tuberculosis. The need for education from the pulpit and in the home is apparent. Every minister in the United States is asked to give this subject some attention during the next two weeks."

WELFARE WORK.

What is Being Accomplished at Durham House Mills.

Durham, N. C., April 29.—The Durham Hosiery Mills in this city are rapidly placing themselves in the very front rank in welfare work. Some time ago they hired a trained nurse who visits the sick, and looks after the people in their everyday life. Now they have added in addition to that a brass band and a night school, both of which will be maintained by the company. The instruments for the band have been ordered and will be paid for by the company. It is the purpose of the employers to have the band coached by a competent leader, and the idea is meeting with hearty approval among the employes.

Besides the brass band a night school is to be added, and any one in the mill community may attend the school at the expense of the company. The purpose of this move is to banish illiteracy from the community, and all operatives who desire positions in the employ of the mill will have to meet certain requirements before they will be accepted. When one asks for a job he will be handed a slip of paper and asked to write his name. If he can not do it there will be no position for him. While attendance at the schools is not compulsory it is at the same time a requirement in order to get a job.

During this year the same mill has put on the nurse feature. It is working with great success, and is receiving the co-operation of the mill people on every hand. The health of the community is already improving at a noticeable rate, and the idea is a good one. All this is being done by the Carr family who own the mills, and who are always on the lookout for some place in which they may be of service to their fellowmen.

CONSERVING THE FORESTS

Note of Warning Sounded at Recent Southern Educational Conference at Jacksonville, Fla., by Hon. Don Carlos Ellis.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 27.—Sounding a note of warning at the policy of forest destruction, "which we have been following for so many years," lest we find ourselves in the same condition as "those Nations of Asia who like ourselves, though for a longer time, because a longer time has been given them, have constantly neglected the great resources of forest with which nature has endowed them," Don Carlos Ellis, chief of the division of education, U. S. Forest Service, speaking before the recent Conference of Education here, called attention to the press dispatches which come year after year from Asia telling of horror and distress in the stricken districts which were plaintively appealing to the world for help. These conditions, he declared, were caused by the deforestation of the slopes with the logical consequence of floods in the lowlands resulting in the fertile soil in the villies being washed away.

Mr. Ellis pleaded for the use, but not the abuse of the forests, and strongly urged the teaching of conservation in the schools. "You may print conservation in the press, preach it from the pulpit, disclaim it from the roserum, but unless you teach it in the schools, it will die with the generation that gave it birth."

The problem of teaching practical conservation in the schools has already been worked out, and, he said, more than half the normal schools of the country today are teaching forest study in some form. "My purpose is solely to urge you to consider whether the introduction of this subject in your schools is not worth while, and whether by its introduction you may not contribute some thing toward the development of the rich resources and industries of the region toward making this development a true and permanent one, and toward establishing the new south as a more prosperous, a happier, and a better home."

After declaring that we are using the forests three times as rapidly as they are growing, he continued:

"And yet I find no fault with the use of wood. Wood has been given to us to use. It is in the enormous, needless waste going on all the time that the fault lies. From time that the log leaves the stump in the woods until it is put to its final use by man only one-third actually used, and then every year an average of $50,000,000 worth is destroyed by fire. Last year the loss was even heavier."

As a reason why the forests demanded special attention, he said, it is of all our resources, the one which is in imminent danger of exhaustion." The forests of a country are always the resource to become scare first for it is the resource which is easiest to reach. It is immediately at hand awaiting, exploitation. In a new country it is at first in the way of agriculture and has to be fought back with ax and fire, until the people acquire the habit of destroying it.

"Then comes a turning point," he said, "beyond which such methods are wasteful. We have passed far, far beyond that turning point, and yet have barely awakened to the fact that we are wasting our heritage, that we are ruthlessly squandering one of the greatest assets of our national wealth. The Southern States, including Texas and the border States of Maryland, West Virginia, and Kentucky, produce almost as much lumber as all the other States, three-fourths as much veneer as the rest, nearly twenty times as much coperage, and all of the naval stores."

The forests of the Appalachian region, which are mostly upon land not suited for agriculture now furnish, he said, about 50 per cent. of our entire hardwood supply, but with the opening up of new regions and the introduction of scientific methods of forest management which should follow the creation of new national forests, should permanently supply at least 75 per cent. for the futunre.

Mr. Ellis declared no wood-using industry had done more toward its own extermination and the destruction of its source of supply than the industry of producing naval stores. After citing how the old methods of collecting the rosin had aided in destroying the Southern pine forests, he explanned a method of placing a cu pton the tree to catch the orsin. Trees thus treated produce 30 per cent more rosin and better rosin, he said; are not easily wind thrown, or susceptible to fire, and finally when the trees are bled to death are fit for the making of good lumber. The introduction of this newt method, he said, "has been the salvation of the naval stores indstry and of the beautiful pine forests which have long been the pride of Dixie Land."

Vital as are the benefits of protecting the forests in the East and West from the ravages of fire and other needlss waste, "they will follow," continued Mr. Ellis, "only as incidental to the primary purpose for which these forests in the Appalachians are to be created, which is the protection of the navigable streams."

Water for power and navigation, he said, is rapidly becoming more ibportant to us. With our wonderfully increasing commerce, the decrease in fuel supply, and the marvelous strides being made in electricity, water is rapidly becoming the greatest source of power.

Mills, he said, have been installed on streams, and many of them have been compelled to install coal engines or even to shut down because the streams have been so irregular, because of the flood or low water. These conditions can be traced largely, he said, to the deforestation of the slopes at the heads of the rivers.

"Do we love the children of our generation? asked Mr. Ellis in concluding. "Then remember that they will love theirs and so to the end of time, and let that love be something more than mere sentiment. Let it result in a wise frugality and an abatement of the greed and vandalism which has alreay gone so far toward despoiling our fair land. Take upon your own shoulders some of the responsibility of conserving what is left. The work is primarily one for the educator, and the educator should begin the school."

SMALL BOY DISSECTED.

At International Congress on Child Welfare in Washington.

Washington, April 27.—The small boy dissected, taken to pieces, looked into and put together again at the evening session of the Second International Congress on Child Welfare. Talking on the subject of the place of fear in home discipline, J. George Becht, of the Clarion, Pa., Normal School, made the statement that the child when born was not good, not bad, but rather unmoral.

The future of the children depended upon the course the parents pursued. He declared that fear ought to be banished from the home; that deception of the child was the result of fear and that it was the child's self protective measure. Most children lie because their parents unintentionally make them lie, he said. He would not do away entirely with corporal punishment, he said, and the Congress seemed to agree with him.

PEACE-MAKER VICTIM.

Former Louisiana State Food Inspector Shot Down at Fight.

New Orleans, April 28.—Yynn Clingman Tompkins, former State food and fertilizer inspector, was brought to this city today suffering with three bullet wounds, inflicted while trying to act as peace-maker in a fist fight between Charles Bennen and Randall Simmons in Plauquemine Parish late yesterday. When Tompkins stepped between them, it is alleged that Simmons drew a revolver and fired Tompkins falling. The wounded man was rushed to this city for medical attention.

Mrs. F. H. Tompkins, of Washington, D. C., has left the city for the bedside of her son.

IMMIGRANTS FOR SOUTH.

Southern Commercial Congress Appoints An Agent for Work.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Washington, D. C., Apr.. 22.—LeRoy Hodges, at present with the Tariff Board, will in a few months become Commissioner of Immigration of the Southern Commercial Congress. In the interval, he will cooperate with Senator Fletcher and Managing Director Dawe, in organizing to successfully carry out the delicate task thus assigned to him by the Executive Committee. Mr. Hodges is in complete sympathy with the Southern Commercial Congress in its repeated declarations that the lands of the South would better remain empty than bring on a second racial problem. In a written communication to the Executive Committee, Mr. Hodges says:

"There is a pressing demand now in the South for skilled industrial laborers, as well as for unskilled workmen, who can be relied on, and who will not further complicate our negro problem.

"I would advocate, however, that the energy of the Southern Commercial Congress be directed towards turning agriculturists towards the South. The large tracts of land which are now lying idle throughout the South should be placed in condition to produce not only subsistence for the army of workers who will be attracted to the region in quest of employment as our industrial development contiues, but also to furnish the raw cotton, tobacco, sugar cane, and the other commodities which our own mills and factories will require outside of the export demands. While this may be made the main work of the Congress for the present, I do not mean to say that the demand for industrial laborers and skilled artisans should be overlooked, for I believe that as far as it is practical an effort should be exerted to supply this need. But as these latter classes are seldom permanent settlers in any one locality, the Southern Commercial Congress can best serve the South by guiding within her boundaries those who will become real factors in the communities in which they take up their residence."

Mr. Hodges is a native of North Carolina, although reared in Virginia where he received his early education in Gatewood's Naval Preparatory School at Norfolk. His education in economics and law was received in Washington & Lee University, and at the University of Chicago. He has spent about two years in railroad and general engineering, having served under the Seaboard Air Line and the Augusta and Florida railroads, and several construction companies.

From July 24th, 1908, until November, 1910, with the exception about four months spent in the Law School in Washington and Lee University, he was special agent and the geographer of the United States Immigration Commission, he was appointed commercial geographer of the Tariff Board, November, 21, 1910, which position he now holds.

The tribes are told that if they will end the rebellion and discontinue their menaces, France will stop the march of her troops toward Fez, but otherwise the French government will be obliged to pacify the country and severely punish the leaders of the revolt.

CHAIRMAN M'NEILL'S OPINION

Dissents From Majority Ruling With Reference to Additional Train Service on Wilmington & Weldon Railroad.

The Star, by request and in the interest of fair play, herewith publishes the dissenting opinion of Chairman Franklin McNeill, of the North Carolina Corporation Commission, with reference to the additional train service on the Wilmington & Weldon railroad, which has been ordered under a majority ruling of Messrs. Lee and Brown. The dissenting opinion is as follows:

Citizens of Goldsboro, Wilmington, Mount Olive, Warsaw, et als. vs. Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company. Additional Passenger Train Service Between Wilmington and Goldsboro.

I regret that I cannot agree with my associates in this case. In my opinion the evidence does not show that the convenience of the traveling public demands the additional passenger train upon the schedule ordered in this case. In my opinion this would be a dead train so far as local travel is concerned, meaning thereby travel from point to point between Wilmington and Goldsboro. It is not probable that shoppers would avail of this train, as it would require them to leave their homes between 4:00 and 6:00 o'clock in the morning and arrive at destination not later than 7:00 o'clock, which would cause them to have to wait one or more hours before the stores and business houses would be open so that they could attend to any business; nor is it probable that shoppers would wait from four to five hours after the stores and business houses are closed to start home not earlier than 10 o'clock at night.

It is the same with reference to traveling salesmen, parties who wish to attend court, and other business people. I do not think that the evidence shows any necessity for a train on this schedule for the convenience of through travel. On all of the trains now operated in this territory the schedules subordinate the convenience of the local travel to the convenience of through travel. No one would contend that the schedules of these four trains would be as they now are if operated for the convenience of travel between Wilmington and Goldsboro.

The suggestion that the schedule ordered will afford facilities which will enable parties from this section to visit Richmond, Norfolk, Raleigh, Durham and Greensboro, and spend several hours in the middle of the day and return the same day is high-sounding rather than practical. There is no evidence that any considerable volume of travel in that section will avail of such schedule. There is now and has been for several years a schedule out of Wilmington by way of the Seaboard to Raleigh, leaving Wilmington at 5 A. M., arriving at Raleigh at 12, and returning, leaving Raleigh at 4 P. M. and arriving at Wilmington at 12, but there is no evidence that any considerable travel avails of this schedule. There is now from Goldsboro this facility to Norfolk and Richmond, and there is no evidence that any considerable number of passengers adopt it. One of the most intelligent witnesses examined in this case, who lives in that section, testified that there was no trade or travel of consequence between his section and Norfolk or Richmond. I think that any additional service that is ordered for this territory should subordinate the through to the convenience of the local travel.

In my opinion, a train out of Wilmington about 6 o'clock in the morning, arriving at Goldsboro about 9, and returning, leave Goldsboro at 5 or 6 and arrive at Wilmington at 8 or 9 would be of great service to the traveling public for local purposes; that it would, after operation, yield a profit and tend to build up that section I know of no finer section of the State than that between Wilmington and Goldsboro, and no section that deserves better consideration from the railroad serving it, and I would cheerfully unite in ordering an additional passenger service in the daytime for this section, upon a petition from the citizens for any reasonable day schedule. This territory, according to the figures quoted in the order in this case, has contributed largely to the revenue and prosperity of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company, and, in my opinion, should have the benefit of additional service. Shoppers, traveling salesmen, and people who desire to attend court, and all other business people would be accommodated by such a schedule as that which I have named.

I think this petition should be dismissed. FRANKLIN McNEILL.
Chairman.

"UP IN THE AIR."

How It Felt in an Aeroplane Over Pinehurst, N. C.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Pinehurst, N. C., April 29.—Charles Evans, Jr., the American entrant for the British amateur golf championship writes interestingly of his recent aeroplane flights here, a dainty pen picture of Pinehurst from the sky:

"Before my ascent I imagined the most acute feeling on leaving my old friend, the earth, would be fear, the shuddering, awesome sort of fear which assails a boy when passing a cemetery on a dark night. On the contrary, as we rose into the air, hovering gently as it seemed above the pine woods, a profound sensation of security came over me, and while the rush of air was tremendous and the revolutions of the high-power motor deafening, I felt as safe as if sitting upon a sheltered balcony.

"The world we were leaving became very small, a strange little toy world. The great Carolina hotel was the Noah's Ark of my childhood, the crowd of people, except for the white dresses of the ladies, a regiment of toy soldiers and the tall pines, tiny, artificial trees such as the Germans send us.

"The village itself was an exquisite bas relief in monotone and sparkling pin points, the golf links, a beautiful stretch of soft green with strange square inserts to mark the putting greens, and the winding roads, silver ribbons, with the surrounding landscape stretching on and on like the ocean, to infinity; every note of color with it vame and in perfect harmony with the whole."

"The Cost to North Carolina of Preventable Disease," by Dr. W. S. Rankin.

The genus home is first of all an animal: one, it is true, that we are not accustomed to think of as a commodity: nevertheless, man the animal, is worthy of serious thought as an economic or business propoition.

To ascertain the finacaial value of man, it is necessary to know two things: The cost of rearing the average person, and the earning capacity of the average person. Experts in estimating values, political economists, such men as Engle, Prof. Mayo Smith and Prof. Fisher, of Yale, figure that it costs between $1,000 and $1,500 to rear the animal, and that the average person earns between $2,500 and $3,500. The excess of the earnings over cost, is the financial value of man, which in the U. S. is about $1,700.

While $1,700 may be accepted as the value of the average American citizen, it is well to bear in mind that the financial value of the human animal varies with its age. With this in mind economists have figured the economic value of man as $2,000 at 10 years; $4,000 at 20 years; $4,100 at 30 years, and $2,900 at 50 years.

Accepting the above figures, it will at once be evident that these diseases that carry off their victims between the fifteenth and fiftieth years, are the expensive ones. Of these diseases, typhoid and tuberculosis are most important. So large a proportion of their victims fall within the asset period of life that the average death from typhoid or tuberculois is estimated at a loss of $3,000.

Applying these figures to the death registration for North Carolina for the past year, we find that of the 33,400 deaths, 14,028 of them were preventable, and should not have occurred. The economic value of these preventable deaths were worth to the State at the conservative estimate of $1,700 each $23,846,600. Of this amount, deaths from tuberculosis represent a loss of $8,000,000 and typhoid over $1,500,000, based on a value of $1,700 each; whereas, the value of life lost from these diseases is $3,000. These figures do not include at least $1,000,000 for docto'r bills for preventable diseases; time lost from sickness amounting to 1,428,000 days for tuberculosis, 361,000 days for typhoid, 5,000,000 days from other preventable diseases, besides undertakers and druggists' bills of $1,000,000 or more.

To bring this matter home to the individual, this computation shows that for the 2,000,000 people of this State there is an annual per capita loss of $11.00. If the reader is extremely conservative let him divide the figures by 2, and if he is ultra-conservative again by 2.

Consider even more closely the cost of preventable disease. Apply the test to your own exeprience. Find the average cost per annum for the cost of disease for the last ten years to your own family. One third of this cost will represent the effect of preventable diseases. Then too, do not lose sight of the effect of slight illneses, indispositions, in their bearings upon the bad business, lost opportunities and fractions of whole day's work.

And to prevent this loss of $11.00 per capita, the average citizen spends through the State Board of Health three-fourths of one cent through both State and county organizations.

That this is a business proposition there can be no doubt. John D. Rockefeller gave $1,000,000 for the eradication of the hook worm. Did this shrewd, calculating business man for once, disregard all his precedents and invest this immense sum of money without investigating the value of his investment? He did not. He made his own investigations and arrived at results that justified this unerring investor in putting up one million dollars for the sanitary war against hook worm. If the oil king has made a bad business move, it is about his first one. Whatever many people may think of his business methods, it would be rather difficult to find a sensible person who questions his business sense.

Problem That Confronts Us.

Washington, N. C., April 28, 1911.

Editor:—The Election on May 1st, means more to our city than the average voter realizes, as the destiny of our fifteen to twenty million dollars worth of property will be placed entirely in the hands of the five Commissioners we are to select, with no check on them, as has been in the past, in the way of the Board of Audit and Finance, that has, during many of its administrations, saved the City almost from bankruptcy. Since this is the problem that confronts us, it is our sacred duty to impartially select from the ten men, five of the best business men, as well as men who are law abiding citizens and have proven themselves to be by experience. Anything less than this would be more than any successful man or men would do. Ask ourselves the question: If I had a fifteen million dollar business and had to employ five men to manage it, would I put any inexperienced man at the head of any of its departments, no, but when I would want to fill a vacancy, would advance those who by their experience and ability had proven that they were capable of managing the job. It is true, a few inexperienced men by their friends and "PULL" have been placed in high places but they generally cost their company dear, 'though nine out of ten who are managing great corporations, such as railroads, cotton mills, factories of all kinds and successful agricultural interests, have commenced at the bottom of the ladder and worked their way up, be they rich or poor. Since we, the tax-payers, laborers and property holders from the corporation of the town, should we, any more entrust our business in the hands of untried men any sooner than the great corporations? No, we should select from the then, five of the best business and law-abiding citizens who have proven by their success to be capable, whether they were born in this city or elsewhere, who will be faithful to the trust imposed in them. There should not be any selfishness in the making up of our ticket, but make it a cold business proposition regardless of sentiment; to do less is a forfeit of our privilege and duty, and would render our commission form of government a failure, affecting every man, let he be laborer, clerk or business man, in the entire city.

FAIR DEAL DESIRED.

The Morning Star, City.

Dear Sirs:—It is difficult to determine whether "T. K." (suggesting a fair deal) is very deep, or quite innocent. The fact that his communication appears as an advertisement, to be inserted three times, indicates the former. In that event, let us analyze his attitude.

Politics in Wilmington have in the past been a reproach, because the best citizens were not organized and did not act as a unit. This has enabled any element which had some definite object in view to easily obtain that object. Under like conditions it will always be so. The reason the recent primaries held a surprise and a setback for certain heretofore victorious interests was because there was a drift of public sentiment towards better government, and this public sentiment was in a measure organized. No matter how great a force is, unless it is directed with intelligence it accomplishes nothing, except perhaps destruction.

We are all pleased that this has not been a campaign of vituperation, and there is no intention to decry any candidate; but the facts are these, and every citizen ought to understand them:

In the coming election, the group of voters who hope to perpetuate the conditions, which we believe are the greatest drawback to this community, and perhaps the greatest reproach to the fair name of Wilmington, will undoubtedly vote solidly for certain candidates—one in the First Ward, one in the Fourth Ward, and one in the Fifth Ward. These are so easy to select that it is unnecessary to mention their names. If "T. K." and others allied with him can muddy the water sufficiently so that confusion is brought into the ranks of those who sincerely desire an improved government for this city, and if these three candidates should be elected, it is more than probable that former conditions will continue.

"T. K." says, "Within sight of the goal and with shouts of victory ringing in one's ears, developments during the last few days have caused us to look up." We may ask, in sighe of what goal? We would also like to know, "shouts of victory" for whom? If there is a goal desired, let us keep our vision uncloudeq until we reach it. As a victory, do not let us imagine a victory until there is one. The forces which have brought us within sight of the goal and the forces which have marched as near to victory as "T. K." claims to be the case, have deemed it wise to mention the names of the candidates for whom they have been working. They have indicated the men whom they believe will give us the fruits of any victory. O. K.

BEACHEY IN DURHAM.

Will Give Flights in Bull City Next Week.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Durham, N. C., April 29.—It is announced that next Wednesday Durham will have an aviation meet, the first of its kind ever shown here. The flights will be made in a Curtiss biplane, and Mr. Lincoln Beachey, the man who did such hair-raising stunts at Wilmington a few months ago, will do the performing in the ship of the air. Mr. Beachey is known to be one of the most daring aviators in the country, and he is now giving exhibitions before government experts at Washington. His coming to Durham is being looked forward to with the greatest interest by those people who have never had the opportunity to see this latest triumph of science. The exhibitions will be given at the new athletic park at East Durham, and unless the wind interferes the aviator will do some startling stunts. The aviation meet is given under the auspices of the Durham Merchants' Association, and they guarantee to refund all admission fees if a flight is not made.

THEATRICAL

As a climax to the biggest season artistically in the history of the Academy of Music will come the engagement of "The Chocolate Soldier," next Saturday, matinee and night. It will make a glorious finale. In fact, it will prove the most brilliant event of the season. The attraction will come here intact from runs in the larger cities. The original principals will appear and the largest company that has ever been on the Academy stage will be seen. It will be mammoth, too, in all other ways. Several 60-foot cars have to be used to transport the scenery and effects and the company has 20 pieces in the orchestra. The latter is specially specified and guaranteed in the contract. The huge organization moves by special train, the company using several Pullmans, and hence will reach Wilmington early next Saturday morning, in ample time for the placing of all the massive and giant amount of scenery. It will be the most notable event of the season and has already caused a furore among Wilmington folks. The reservation of seats for subscribers, those who helped to make possible the bringing of the attraction to Wilmington, as a big guarantee had to be made, will commence at Plummer's Wednesday morning, and the next day the sale will be open to the general public.

"The Chocolate Soldier" was in Atlanta the past week and last Wednesday's Atlanta Georgian paid this really brilliant tribute:

"In 'The Chocolate Soldier' Atlanta theatregoers discovered a rare treat on Monday night at the Grand. As the large audience filed out slowly, and reluctantly, lingering to hear the last orchestral strains of 'My Hero', despite the hands of the clock pointing to 11:30, extravagant praise was heard on every side. On the evening air, after the orchestra faded away hundreds of soft notes thrilled the ear and even when the last sound had died away the music still lived in the memory, haunting with its sweetness, refusing to die.

"For such is the melody of the Straus music in 'The Chocolate Soldier.' It plays on the heart strings and reverberates again in the memory. Such songs as 'My Hero,' 'Falling Deep in Love' and 'That Would be Lovely' strike deep notes of harmony, and the rollicking 'Chocolate Soldier Duet' is as catchy an air as one could hear. The entire score is full of melody—the melody which appeals to the sense of pleasure, which compels a response of pleasure, and which, difficult as it may be to produce, never obtrudes a thought of its technical difficulty to displace a thrill of the enjoyment which its pure melody inspires.

"The principals in the cast presenting 'The Chocolate Soldier' are, without exception, splendid. Miss Rena Vivienne, in the prima donna role, has a beautiful voice and is a charming young woman to look upon. Her duets with 'The Chocolate Soldier' were especially pleasing. Miss Ilon Berger as Mascha is equally as satisfying in her part as Miss Vivienne in hers. Miss Berger is the original 'Merry Widow' and in her present role she has a vivacious, winning part, somewhat similar to the 'Merry Widow' role, though not so prominent. She is heard to special advantage in the 'Falling in Love' song, with Alexius, this being one of the most beautiful songs in the opera. George Tallman, who as Alexius, made a distinct hit with the audience, his magnificent tenor voice winning tumultuous and spontaneous applause upon his every entrance. 'The Chocolate Soldier' is a very fascinating young fellow, as conceived by Charles Purcelle, whose acting equals his fine voice and his masterly musical ability. Miss Margaret Crawford sang in a splendid manner the deep-toned role of Aurelia Popoff Monday night, and Edmond Mulcany as Colonel Popoff scored a success. The chorus is musical, as well as comely, in their becoming Bulgarian costumes and when at the end of the second act, the music brought out the full force of the voices of the entire company the audience became so demonstrative in their approval the curtain was raised for the bows of response a half dozen times or more.

"The opera is based on George Bernard Shaw's play, 'Arms and the Man,' and conforms closely to the story of the play. The music is introduced skillfully and does not break the continuity of the story at all. The comedy is especially strong, some very funny situations and lines bringing much laughter throughout the play. The exquisite Straus music, however, makes the strong appeal. Altogether, the performance offers something out of the ordinary in character and in its presentation."

Polk Miller Tuesday Night.

"Two Old Confederates in Old Times Down South, an evening of Old Plantation and War Time Stories and Songs, will be the offering at the Academy of Music Tuesday night for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium fund and the admission will be only 50 and 75 cents, seats being on sale at Plummer's. Mr. Miller will be accompanied by Col. "Tom" Booker, of Amelia county, Va., and Mr. Miller's Famous Quartette of Old Virginia Negroes, who look, act and sing like the old times. Of a recent entertainment the Augusta, Ga., Chronicle says:

"Mr. Polk Miller's entertainment at Miller Walker Hall last night was a revelation even to Southern ears who have known from childhood the exquisite harmony of ante-bellum negroes' minstrelsy and folk songs. In his quartette of negro singers, Mr. Miller has a medium for presenting old time plantation music probably superior to any other because the betrayal is true to life and because the ability of the four men is phenomenal. The quartette is a marvel. Of course, Mr. Miller is always himself a gifted Southern gentleman whose position in the world of Southern melody is like that of Thomas Nelson Page and Joel Chandler Harris in Southern literature. His banjo playing has the true plantation swing and his jokes and tales are ever new. His singing is characteristic and sympathetic."

PAPER AND LABOR TALKED.

Topics Before American Publishers' Association in New York.

New York, April 27.—Paper and labor—the two chief item of expense to a newspaper—were the topics under discussion today at the second day's session of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association's annual meeting here. John Norris, chairman of the committee on paper, submitted the annual report of the committee summarizing its work, and predicting results within a short time from the association's efforts, begun in 1907 to secure print paper free from import duty.

The report commended the pending reciprocity agreement with Canada as a measure of relief to newspaper publishers, and in line with this sentiment the Association passed a resolution asking passage by House of Representatives. The committee on print paper—Messrs. Norris, Don C. Seitz, and Herman Ridder—was continued with authority to pursue its work.

The association also went on record as favoring the abolition of import duties upon print paper, "when made from free wood, wherever cut."

The arbitration agreements with the various unions in the printing trades expire next year and action in the matter will have to be taken at this coming Summer's National Convention of the unions. Hence, it was deemed advisable to get impressions of the opinion on what the new agreements should embody and to appoint committee to draw up new agreements for submission to the labor organizations.

After the standing Committee on Labor had reported National officers of three of the unions made addresses. They were James M. Lynch, president of the International Typographical Union; James J. Freel, president of the National Electrotypers Union, and Matthew Wool, president of the National Photographers Union.

President Lynch commented at length on the "efficiency" speech delivered yesterday by President Herman Ridder, of the A. N. P. A. The union, he said, had shown its desire to hold up its end in this matter of efficiency by establishing a school of instruction, whereas the publishers had done nothing.

Mr. Lynch voiced hearty approval of the arbitration policy, as did Presiden Freel, who hoped for a continuation of existing cordial relations.

The committee appointed to draft new agreements was given full power to conclude negotiations according to its judgment.

The association will hod it concluding sessions and elect officers tomorrow.

FOR GRAND EXALTED RULER.

Dallas Elk to Enter Race At Atlantic City Soon.

San Antonio, April 29.—Texas Elks are taking active interest in the candidacy of Charles A. Rasbury, of Dallas, law partner of Senator Charles A. Culberson, for the position of Grand Exalted Ruler of the Order. Judge C. K. McDowell, of Del Rio, and Mike T. Lively, of Dallas, are taking much interest in Mr. Rasbury's candidacy. In official Elkdom throughout the United States Mr. Rasbury is recognized as a most formidable candidate. At the last National meeting of the order at Buffalo, the El Paso Elks made a hit and the impression they created popularized Texas with the order throughout the country. It is this along with the prominence of Mr. Rasbury that is making the latter a strong candidate for the highest office in the gift of the order.

"SEARCHING FOR THE SPY"—DRAMATIC SCENE IN THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER.

IMPORTANCE OF SEED.

Too Much Importance Cannot be Attached to Selection.

Raleigh, N. C., April 22.—Now is the time the farmers of the State are preparing for the harvest time, which means the money they shall realize and upon which their living depends. But what shall it be? To no inconsiderable measure it depends upon what kind of seeds are sown. Often absolute failures are caused by planting poor seed that will not grow, or, still worse, seed that is badly adulterated with serious weeds, which entirely ruin the land for certain agricultural purposes, often upon which the farmer most depends.

That there is a great difference in the farm seeds sold in the State is forcibly shown by the difference in the results of the analyses made at the Seed Testing Laboratory of the Department of Agriculture, co-operating with the United States Department. For example, the results of the 125 tests of red clover seed made this Spring by the seed laboratory ranged all the way from 50 to 99.6 per cent pure seed, and from 20 to 97 per cent. germination. Some contained no weed seeds at all, while others contained more than 90,000 to the pound. Some examples contained more than 50 per cent. of dodder or love vine, which is the worst of all pests that occur in clovers and alfalfa. This great difference in the quality of seed is not only true in case of red clover, but of all the farm seeds.

Not only the loss of money paid for the seeds, which is really a small item, but the failure to obtain crops can be prevented by knowing the value of the seed which is planted. The Department will make tests of all agricultural and vegetable seeds for any farmer in the State free of charge and reports will be sent to him promptly. In case the seed does not come up to the standard of good seed the lot may be returned to the dealer from whom it was purchased and the money refunded or a good quality of seed given in exchange, whichever the purchaser desires. In submitting samples to be tested, for the smaller seeds, such as red clover and the grasses, one-half of a teacup will be sufficient; for the larger seeds, such as the cereals, more should be sent.

Address all samples to the Seed Testing Laboratory, Department of Agriculture, Raleigh, N. C., with the following information: retail price of seed and name and address of dealer from whom it was purchased.

HOW HE CURED HIS SKIN DISEASE

About twenty years ago I began to break out with Eczema on my head, legs and arms, and commenced treatment with the local doctors, but did not get much relief. I continued to treat the disease under the direction of different physicians for two years, and at the end of that time they said the disease was chronic. I then quit them and tried various ointments, salves, lotions, etc., for another two years, but soon I was as bad off as before, so I finally decided to let medicine alone, and for twelve or thirteen years I suffered intensely from the Eczema. During the time I lost about half of my hair. At last I began S. S. S., doubtful of a cure, because the disease had run on so long, but I soon discovered that your medicine was doing me good, and continued to take it. After taking S. S. S. for awhile I was completely cured of the Eczema, not having a single spot left on my body, which before was almost completely covered with the eruption. I waited until the Spring to see if it would return, but have seen no signs of it, and am satisfied the cure is permanent. It has been several years now and I do not believe I will ever have any return of the trouble.

1017 Hackberry St., Ottumwa, Iowa. F. C. NORFOLK.

What S. S. S. did for Mr. Norfolk it can do for every one who is afflicted with a Skin Disease. He is just one of the many thousands who have cured themselves by the simple process of purifying the blood and removing the cause from the circulation. We want you to be cured if you have any skin trouble, and shall endeavor in this short talk to tell you just why S. S. S. will accomplish the desired result.

The skin is composed of two distinct layers. One is known as the epidermis or outer skin, which has no fibres, and serves principally as a covering to the body. The other is known as the derma or true skin, and is composed of elastic fibres, fat tissue, glands, lymphatics, nerves, etc. The thousands of tiny veins and arteries with which this lower section is interlaced, supplies the cuticle with healthful properties from the circulation to keep the skin smooth and healthy. We can therefore readily see how necessary it is for the blood to be pure if the skin remain free from disease, and also why humors and acids in the circulation always find their way to the surface and cause skin affections.

All skin troubles are due to a humor or acid in the blood. Instead of supplying rich, nutritive properties to the cuticle, the circulation constantly deposits an acrid impurity into the sensitive fibres and tissues. This causes inflammation of the under layer of the skin which splits or breaks the thin outer tissue and causes an ulceration of the glands, producing a discharge upon the surface, in the form of Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, etc. There is likewise a dry form of skin disease such as Acne, Psoriasis, etc. In these varieties the humor in the blood diseases the pores, hair follicles, etc., causing them to swell and protrude to the outer surface. Pimples, rashes, eruptions and like troubles are all due to impure blood, and only a blood purifier can cure them. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., will perhaps afford some temporary relief from the itching, and assist in keeping the skin clean, but such treatment can have no effect on the humors in the blood, and therefore never do any permanent good.

S. S. S. cures Skin diseases of every kind by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the blood. S. S. S. cools the acid-heated circulation, builds it up to its normal strength and thickness, multiplies its rich, nutritious corpuscles, and adds to its purity and nourishing qualities in every way. Then the skin, instead of being irritated and inflamed by fiery humors and acids, is nourished, soothed and softened by a plentiful supply of rich, pure blood. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers and therein lies its ability to cure skin diseases. It cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, pimples, boils, rashes and all eruptions of the cuticle. These troubles cannot remain when the cause has been removed, and S. S. S. will certainly remove the cause by purifying the blood. Book on Skin Diseases free to all who write.

Here's the Story of How Three Men Learned Why One Automobile is Worth More Than Others

If You are Thinking of Spending $1000 or More for a Motor Car, the Story is Worth Five Minutes of Your Time Because it Will Save You Money

Several men were sitting in a club in Detroit a few days ago when one man looked up from a magazine he was reading and said:

"I am thinking of buying an automboile and I'm certainly having a time to make up my mind which one to buy. I've just been reading the automobile ads in this magazine and now I'm more up in the air than ever. They all make the same claims and every one claims the limit."

"I've had the same trouble," said a second man. "Every automobile company says that its car is 'positively the greatest automobile value in the word.'"

"Yes," chimed in a third, "and every one of them claims to have the finest factory and the best workmen and the best design; every one claims to use the finest materials in its cars, no matter what the price of the cars may be. What is the buyer going to do?"

"About all I can see to do is simply to shut your eyes and buy one," said the first man.

"Pardon me, gentlemen, but you are going at it the wrong way," said a fourth man. "The rignt way to buy automobiles is to buy the cars themselves, not the advertising claims. Anyone can write advertising claims. You want to look at the cars. Find out just what is in them; how they are really made; what their reputation is for service."

"That sounds all right, but how can we tell that some cars are better than others even after we see them?" queries the other three.

"By getting right automobile standards fixed in your minds—the points on which cars really can be judged.

"You men all know a good suit of clothes, a good horse, a good cigar when you examine them, because you have the right standards for judging them. If you will take the pains to learn automobile standards in the same way and then apply them, you won't have any more trouble selecting a real quality motor car than you now have in selecting 'worth-the-money' clothes, houses and cigars. Careful and intelligent comparison of the cars is the only way to reach a right decision."

"That sounds sensible. Are you an automobile man?"

"I am."

"What are some of these standards you talk about?"

"Well, I should say that Simplicity of Design, Good Looks, Ease of Control, Comfort for both driver and passengers, proper proportion of weight to size and tires and the Factors of Safety, are among the most important."

"I see."

"If a man will keep these points in mind and really do his own observing and make up his own judgments, he probably won't go wrong."

"What car do you represent?"

"The Chalmers '30'."

"What does it sell for?"

"For $1,600 equipped with Bosch Magneto, Gas Lamp and Pres-O-Lite Tank."

"You're just the man I've been looking for. I've though of buying a car at about that price, but here's an advertisement which claims that a car selling about $350 cheaper than your car is just as good as yours. I would like to have you tell me just why your car is worth the difference."

"Well, the easiest way for me to do that is to tell you some of the things you can get in a Chalmers '30' which you can't possibly get in any car selling for from $200 to $400 less. You can then decide for yourself whether it is worth the difference."

"Go ahead."

Some Important Things You Can't Possibly Get in a Car Selling for Less Than the Chalmers.

"That cheaper car has what body finishers call second grade leather upholstering. The makers could not afford to use a first grade of leather, such as you find in the Chalmers '30.'

"The other car can't have the best grade of hair in the upholstering, nor as much of it. Hence the seats can't be as durable or as comfortable.

"The maker of the cheaper car can't afford to paint his car as the Chalmers '30' is painted. The bodies of some low-priced cars are simply 'dipped.' The body of a Chalmers '30' receives sixteen coats of paint and varnish.

"The cheaper car cannot have the same high grade body. No car selling for a less price than the Chalmers '30' has the high-grade materials and workmanship found in the Chalmers body. Ask any builder about this.

Motors Alone Worth the Difference.

"In the work on the motors alone, the Chalmers '30' is worth the difference. The maker of the cheaper car could not afford to heat-treat his crankshaft, connecting rods and all other important parts. He can't afford to put the work on grinding his cams accurately to size and shape.

"He could not afford to polish the connecting rod bearings, nor machine out the tops of the cylinders, thus making compression absolutely equal and the balance even among all four.

"He could not afford to anneal the cylinders and pistons so they won't ever vary in size, no matter how strenuously the motor may be used.

"The maker of a cheap car could not afford to—and none of them does—open up the motor after it is put in the car. Every Chalmers '30' motor is opened twice after it is put in the car—once during the road test and once during the final inspection test—to see if the bearings are O. K. And the last thing before shipment the valves are reground.

"Most important of all, he could not afford to test his motors as the Chalmers motors are tested. Every '30' motor gets a 20-hour test and after that a thorough road test. The men in charge of the Chalmers motor testing department formerly did similar work in factories where cars costing $3,000 and $4,000 are built, and they say the Chalmers standards of inspection are higher than in the factories where those high-priced cars are made.

"Our inspectors in all other departments, who have had experience in other factories, tell us the same thing.

Finer Materials Used.

"The cheaper car cannot use the finest grade of black walnut in dash, door strips, heel boards, steering wheel, etc. It cannot have the same durable and good-looking covering for floors and running boards, nor the same high-grade hinges, door locks and handles, bonnet handles, foot rests, robe rail and other small details of finish.

"The cheaper car could not have the fenders made of the high-class material used in the Chalmers. Nor could its fenders be finished with four coats of enamel, each coat baked on. No car at any price has a better made, better finished tender equipment than the Chalmers '30.' Cheap fenders are always an eyesore.

"No cheaper car could have as strong and heavy a frame as the Chalmers '30.' No other car selling at the same price as the Chalmers, or several hundred dollars less, or even several hundred dollars more, has a frame of such careful design, such strength and safety as the Chalmers. Just look at the various frames some day. You can see the difference for yourself.

"The cheaper car could not have transmission and live valve shafts of special steel, heat-treated in the same way, under the latest improved specifications of the Society of Automobile Engineers, as the Chalmers.

No Better Wheels Made.

"The cheaper car could not afford to have the same grade of hickory in its wheel spokes. Hickory used in Chalmers wheels is absolutely the same grade as that used in the highest-priced cars made in America, and the factor of safety for size is just as great.

"The cheaper car could not have the same high-grade ball bearings throughout. Those cars have cheaper bearings, where they use ball bearings, and some of them use only plain bearings, such as you find in wagon wheels.

"No cheaper car could have a solid stamped steel rear axle housing of unusual size and strength. The cheaper cars have what is known as 'built-up' axles. They are not so strong.

"No cheaper car could afford to have so many steel forgings of important small parts, as the Chalmers '30.' On the cheaper cars you find castings used at many points where steel forgings would be better. The Chalmers does not use a casting at any point where a forging would be better.

"The cheaper car could not afford to have a crank shaft made of the same grade of special steel specially treated, as you find in the Chalmers. The Chalmers company has built and sold more than 15,000 cars, and it has never had a crank shaft broken or even sprung.

"The cheaper car could not afford to have the long elliptic springs made of high carbon, oil-tempered steel, like the Chalmers. Springs are very important, for they mean riding comfort, if they are good. They mean absence of riding comfort, if they are inferior.

Inspection Means Satisfaction.

"The maker of a cheaper car could not afford to inspect his raw materials and finished parts with the care the Chalmers company gives. He could not afford to give his cars as long a road test.

"The maker of the cheaper car could not afford to analyze every bit of raw material entering into his car. At the Chalmers factory there are fully equipped chemical and physical laboratories in charge of experts. There is a test bar taken from every shipment of raw material received for use in Chalmers cars. The material is analyzed in the laboratories, and, if it fails to come up to the specifications of the Engineering Department as to its properties and its strength, it is rejected.

"Now, gentlemen, these are some of the reasons why the Chalmers '30' is worth the difference I've tried to express them in untechnical language. There are many other reasons. Unfortunately, many of the most important cannot be explained except in the Factory.

"But they show in the cars. They are the things which make for strength, long life, safety, comfort, beauty, freedom from troubles.

"You can't always tell the difference between six coats of paint and sixteen, as new cars stand in a salesroom. But you can tell it in six months; still more in a year; and still more in three years.

"Neither can you always tell the difference in materials and workmanship in a demonstration ride. But you can tell in six month; still more in a year; still more in three years.

"By the way, it will be easier to select a car in three years from now. Time will prove, and disprove, a lot of advertising claims. Good cars won't be so much better than now, but only the companies making good cars now will be doing business then.

"Buy a car that has the quality to be long-lived. Can you think of any low-priced car that has the reputation of the Chalmers? Can you think of one that is as good-looking, that rides as comfortably, that wears as well? Can you think of one that has a performance record like the Chalmers? And if you can't, then isn't the Chalmers worth the difference?"

Just One Thing More

"There is just one thing more I would like to have you explain," said the man who had started this discussion.

"What's that?"

"You are charging only about one-fourth to one-third more than the other cars you've been talking about, and yet your car seems to have enough points of superiority to make it worth relatively much more than that. How is that?"

"Well, that's a good point. I'm glad you brought that up. The ability of the Chalmers Company to make a car much more than 25 per cent. better than some others and charge only a fourth or third as much more, is owing to the operation of an economic law which you can observe in nearly all lines of manufacturing. You can buy a good suit for say $30 or $40. Put 25 per cent. to 35 per cent. more to that and you can get a suit worth about twice as much for looks and wear and class—real quality. Take any other line—the same conditions hold."

"That's right. I see that, and I'm much obliged to you for telling me all these things. I've made up my mind to pay the difference and have a Chalmers."

That's the story of how one Chalmers car was sold. There are scores of incidents like this all over the country these days. Every club has one or more a day. In thousands of homes there are discussions like the foregoing—with father, mother and the boys and girls taking part—trying to decide which car they would better buy. We know that many are trying to find out just why the Chalmers "30" is "worth the difference." We have tried to help them.

Only one thing endures and everlastingly succeeds in this world and that is Quality. The Chalmers "30" has quality.

We can still accept a few orders for Chalmers cars for spring delivery, but there is sure to be a shortage this year, as there has been in the past. Of course, it's always possible to get automobiles, but there's a time each year when you can't get a Chalmers. And it's a time when you want a car the worst—late spring and early summer. But while our allotment lasts, we stand ready to serve you.

SCIENTIFIC COTTON GROWING

English Capital Interested in Big Agricultural Project in Mississippi—Other Southern Developmental Enterprises Announced.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Baltimore, April 29.—What may be the beginning of a movement of far-reaching importance for Southern cotton growers and for ctoton manufacturers is indicated in the fact that English capital has become interested in 32,000 acres of cotton land in Mississippi.

Mr. L. K. Salsbury, of Memphis, Tenn., telegraphs the Manufacturers' Record that he and Messrs. A. S. Buchanan, Rice Fant and George H. Tucker, of Memphis; William M. "KNOCKOUT" BROWN WINNER.

Gets Decision Over "Kid" Broad at Memphis, Tenn.

Memphis, Tenn., April 24.—"Knockout" Brown, a Chicago welter weight, was given the decision over "Kid" Broad, of Philadelphia, after eight fast rounds fought before the Southern Athletic Club tonight. Both men were badly battered. Brown, however, outclassed the Philadelphia man and toward the end hammered him about the ring almost at will.

Kicked by a Mad Horse.

Samuel Birch, of Beetown, Wis., had a most narrow escape from losing his leg, as no doctor could heal the frightful sore that developed, but at last Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it completely. Its the greatest healer of ulcers, burns, boils, eczema, scalds, cuts, corns, cold-sores, bruises and piles on earth. Try it. 25c at R. R. Bellamy's.

DR. ALDERMAN'S TRIBUTE

Voices Welcome to Dr. Woodrow Wilson at Pewter Patter Club Banquet at Norfolk Last Night. His Nativity.

Norfolk, Va., April 29.—In voicing Virginia's welcome to her "native son," Governor Woodrow Wilson, at the Pewter Platter Club tonight, President Edwin A. Alderman, of the University of Virginia, said in part:

"The welcome that Virginia extends to the Governor of New Jersey and a leader of American Democracy, is naturally not a sectional or provincial welcome in any narrow sense. The mother State appreciates perfectly that she is welcoming back home a son of hers, who has had much experience of men and things, who has known the discipline of service to many States and communities, who, though not unmindful of the strength of local affections and sentiments, but because of that very largeness of outlook, sees more clearly, in its true relations, the majestic meaning of our inheritance in the whole nation. He has lived in North Carolina, which I can highly recommend as an experience good for the soul of any man. He has good South Carolina blood in his veins, which has its fine uses, too, unless it fails to scrapping with the corpuscles from North Carolina. He has felt the exhiliration of mere existence in Georgia. He has been tried out on the anvil of Pennsylvania and Maryland, and it would seem as if he might, in time, be translated from New Jersey. He has learned wisdom from books and sympathy from men and toughness and virility of spirit from that most testing of human experiences, a ten years' tenure of the presidency of an American university.

"We of Virginia could bear with fortitude Governor Wilson's assumption of even larger honors and responsibilities. Where he can do the most service to the Republic, there we want him to be. It is good to be a Democrat in this year of our Lord. The very word leaps out at one from the printed page charged with a new and vital meaning. The leaders of the party that bears the great name, in the Federal Congress are going about the tasks imposed upon them by the nation with a sobriety and an intelligence, a self sacrifice and a calmness very disappointing and surprising to their enemies and very heartening to their friends.

"The people are slowly growing more and more curious about their government and not averse to taking part in its intimate processes. The day, for instance, when such a measure as the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill could be steam-rolled through the American Senate is passed, never to return. We may not deal in infinite wisdom with all the tariff schedules, but we will never deal with them in just that unscientific way again.

"The air of public duty blowing about the region in which Woodrow Wilson was born has been wholesome air for purifying the blood of public leadership in this third great American political crisis.

"The whole nation should rejoice, I believe, that such a training ground for leadership, prepared through such trials, lay in her borders, and there is a fine justice, which the thoughtful will not miss, in the turning southward of the eyes of all the people for help and guidance at this decisive hour when our age of furious gain-getting has at last been succeeded by an age of moral warfare, when the supremest need of the Nation's life is the leadership of a patriotic National-minded man whose eyes are clear to see the whole blessed truth about things, who has stomach for the fight, who will not falter before difficulties, nor swerve backward, nor be made afraid."

NEW ENGLAND PROGRESSIVE.

Recent Declaration by Corporation Men Electrify, Staid and Conservative.

Boston, April 29.—Conservative New England is breaking out with "progressivism" in unexpected spots. Cold and ultraconservative Boston threatens to "come down" with a bad case. The "spell" of political progressiveness which New England exeprienced at the last Congressional and State elections, has been followed by quite pronounced symptoms in business, and an acceptance of the 20th century doctrine that the people are the partners and not the victims of the great corporations.

The people in other sections of the country have long contended for this view, but New England has steadfastly held to the theory that "business is business," to a degree that the public was shut out when "business" had something at stake.

To have this idea shattered by the heads of two great New England corporations within a few weks has come as a surprise that has almost stunned the public. To have had the fire come from a politician seeking a popular slogan would have caused little comment. But when President Mullen, of tae New York, New Haven & Hartford, one of the largest railway systems of the country and most arbitrary, urges a municipally owned and operated harbor for Boston, and Theodore N. Vail, of Boston, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, with interests all over the country, advocates the regulation and control of public service corporations by the public through permanent commissions, the symptoms of progressivism cannot be laughed away as the idle dreams of a street corner politician.

For generations Boston and New England have been looked upon as the safety brake against the hasty judgment of the West and other sections. This has been especially true in politics and business. New England has looked upon any new idea coming from the West as probably unsound, or at least as in need of a very careful modification. The West has looked upon New England as a good deal behind the times, narrow and interested only in the welfare of its little bit of the country.

Political progressivism started in the West. It required several years to innoculate New England with the germs. Business progressivism has always been the creed of the West, and it has taken many decades for New England to become "tainted" with it. But now the virus is rushing rapidly through New England's veins, for when "big business", the conservative, respectable bellwethers speak, New England listens eagerly.

The following statements may not seem extraordinary or even new to the country outside of New England, but here they are revolutionary.

"It is my belief," said President Mullen, "that a city like Boston should control its own water front and own its own piers. This is all in accordance with modern thought and practice." The railroad system of which he is the chief executive operates many boats and owns most of its piers and docks.

"What is and should be condemned, prevented and punished," said President Vail in his report to the stockholders of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, "is the abuse made by corporate machinery to the dertiment of public welfare. Public control or regulation of public service corporations by permanent commissions, has come and come to stay. Such control and regulation can and should stop all abuse of capitalization, of extortion, or of overcharges, of unreasonable division of profits."

In the past, while New England has been slow to change from the old to the new, it has made up for its slowness when it did change. There are some who predict a similar course in the present instance, and say that it will not be long before New England will "outprogressive" the West.

WHAT IS NEEDED.

Co-Operation Between Railroad and the Public—Immigration.

New York, April 22.—"Never before in this country has the common good of all its interests so hinged upon a real, genuine spirit of co-operation between the railroads of the country and its people," was a statement made today by Mr. J. J. Campion, vice president and traffic manager of the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio Railroad, a Southern line with main offices in Johnson City, Tenn. "And never before," said he, "since the earlier days of railroad building has there been more evidence that such a spirit exists and that it is working itself into actual fact.

"The greatest of all needs in the Southern States today," said Mr. Campion, "is more people. Many millions of acres lie wholly unused which, with less expenditure of labor and capital than elsewhere in the Union, would yield about as many million tons of traffic. That they do not is an annual heavy loss not only to the railroads, but to the entire country. It is even greater to the latter. Easily the first of the problems confronting our line was the question of more people to make use of the idle land. The settlement of this question was, we recognized, possible only by enlisting with us the individual efforts of the population we had. We were willing to go to the extreme limit in advertising the advantages of our line, but advertising alone would not turn the flow of home-seekers south, nor would it stay the movement of people from the South to the West. The efforts of older lines had not been able to accomplish these things, and we did not see any prospect that similar efforts on our part would do any more. It was evident, then, that some new measure must be adopted. Some sharp departure from ineffectual immigration plans of the past must be made. Whereupon we inaugurated what we called the "Back Home" movement, which is simply inducing our people to call their kinsmen and friends back to their former homes. Looks easy, doesn't it? Yes, it's simple enough, but that little proposition is loaded to the guards. First", continued Mr. Campion, "the plan at once seized upon the fancy of the people. It brought them into the work with us. It was something in which they had personal interest, which is, of course, necessary before there can be any co-operation. They had never before had any interest in the matter of immigration. In any general sense they do not now, but the 'Back Home' movement has reduced the subject to terms of individual 'human interest'; and, although it was set in motion only last August, it has already extended itself throughout all the States east of the Mississippi and south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers.

"I will not go into the subject of results from the movement, although they have been far beyond expectation. My purpose is to show that the public is ready to co-operate with the railroads when there is a reasonable basis for co-operation, and when it is made plain that their interests are identical. I do not, of course, expect that there will always be perfect agreement between them, for the relation of buyer and seller will always exist; but upon broad economic issues I believe that the educative influence now at work, both upon the carriers and the public, will soon remove many of the difficulties heretofore so perplexing and injurious to all."

PRAISE BERRY SCHOOLS.

Roosevelt Pays Tribute to Notable Endeavor of a Woman.

New York, April 25.—Martha Berry, who nine years ago gathered a few "one suspender boys" together in a log cabin near Rome, Ga., for a Sunday School lesson, and Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who is much interested in the Berry schools which she founded, addressed a meeting here tonight in the interest of the Berry School Association.

Col. Roosevelt spoke of the fine work he had found Miss Berry's schools doing in the backwoods sections of the South, where he said the type of boys was the finest in the country, "their faces showing the rugged strength and character of such men as Lincoln and Jackson."

Miss Berry, known as "the Sunday lady of Possum Trot," told of conditions in the back woods sections and of her work, and Judge Wright, of Georgia, and Dr. Albert Shaw pleaded for aid to extend it.

PROGRESS OF CAMPAIGN.

Eighteen Thousand Cases of Hookworm Disease Treated in State.

Raleigh, N. C., April 29.—The rapidity with which a knowledge of the cause, harm, cure and prevention of hookworm disease has spread among our people stands without a parallel in the history of preventable diseases.

Only a year or two ago there was found quite commonly skepticism concerning the existence of such a disease; but practically all the doubters have now had opportunities for seeing the worms, the sufferers, their recoveries after treatment, and are now actively lending their support to the eradication of the disease.

The quarterly report of Dr. Jno. A. Ferrell, the State Director of the Hookworm campaign for the three months ending March 31, shows that up to date the physicians of the State have reported treating 18,000 cases of hookworm disease and that more than 500 of the active physicians of the State are treating the disease. Moreover, it shows that the Laboratory of Hygiene has examined since the work began 17,000 specimens of feces for the eggs of the hookworm, which indicate the infection.

To prevent the further spread of the hookworm disease, typhoid fever, and other diseases similarly spread, a wave for better sanitary conditions is rapidly spreading. "Clean-up Week" and the compulsory use of sanitary toilets are measures being inaugurated in many towns and villages. Quite a number of county and city boards of education have ordered the installation of sanitary toilets at the schools.

During the past twelve months there have been distributed approximately 200,000 pieces of stock literature on the subject, which include a leaflet on hookworm disease, an illustrated pamphlet on hookworm disease, and an illustrated pamphlet on plans and specifications for sanitary toilets. These are sent free on request to the Hookworm Commission, North Carolina Board of Health, Raleigh, N. C.

The campaign, in a broad sense, is one for better sanitary conditions in the South, an aggressive warfare not against one but against many diseases. "The success of the campaign," says Wm. H. Glasson, in the April South Atlantic Quarterly, "must lessen the heavy burden of sickness, bring new vigor to great numbers of people and accomplish the saving of thousands of lives."

THE DEMAND FOR CARS.

Early Season Figures of Packard Company Indicate Healthy Condition.

A heavy demand for motor cars of the higher grade is indicated by the early season figures of the Packard Motor Car Company. During the week ending April 22nd, which followed the announcement of the 1812 line, specifications for 208 cars were received at the factory, which means that number of contracts signed by individual purchasers. The division of these orders was 155 "30s" 36 "6s" and 17 "18s". The corresponding week of the 1911 season showed 153 cars. The increase is 35 per cent.

More Packard cars and a greater percentage of the season's output have been sold this year than at the corresponding period of any preceding season.

A new high mark for one day's business was reached Monday, April 24th, when specifications were received for 75 cars, ten additional enclosed bodies and four trucks.

The 1912 demonstrators have been going forward during the last two weeks of April and regular shipments to dealers start early in May. All shipments follow a regular schedule conforming to dealers' allotments.

The sale of Parckard trucks for the first quarter of the calendar year, 1911, was 94 per cent. in excess of the record for the same period in 1910.

King of Stomach Remedies Free to Try

It is the opinion of all who have used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin that it has no equal in the cure of ailments pertaining to the stomach, liver and bowels. We only have room here to print a few letters recently received, but it is a fact that thousands have been received. In complaints like constipation, headache, biliousness, drowsiness after eating, heartburn, gas on the stomach, and similar troubles, whether in infancy or old age, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the one reliable remedy for you to take. Its action is so mild that it can be given to a baby—in fact, thousands of mothers buy it for their children—and yet it is sufficiently strong so that the most robust person will get action. People who use Syrup Pepsin never again take salts or cathartic pills, which often, by their violence, do much to upset the stomach, for Syrup Pepsin is pleasant to take and does its work permanently. Many have been able to do away entirely with the use of medicines after but a brief experience with Dr. Caldwell's wonderful remedy. It is sold in fifty cent and one dollar bottles and any druggist can supply you. But if you prefer to make a trial of it first send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will forward a free sample bottle to your home.

Look for This Picture on Pkg.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ill.

The following are some extracts from letters Dr. Caldwell has received:

"It is with great pleasure that I recommend Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. For years my husband was a constant sufferer from dyspepsia and indigestion and bilious colic. I gave him everything I could think of, but he grew rapidly worse. I happened to think of the bottle of Syrup Pepsin a friend had left with me, which I would not give him at the time. I gave it to him now and he improved from the first two doses. He is now a well man and we have never been without Syrup Pepsin in the house since."—Mrs. D. M. Davis, Griggsville, Ill.

"I cannot say enough for Syrup Pepsin. It is a god-send to suffering people. My stomach was in a terrible shape. Am glad to say it is all O. K. now and am feeling fine. Both myself and husband are using Syrup Pepsin and will never be without it. I have had three of my neighbors get Syrup Pepsin and they think it is fine."—Mrs. Eva Gaskins, No. 304 Madison St., Topeka, Kas.

"I have had stomach trouble for over two years and always thought I had heart trouble, for I had pains in my left side. My heart and nerves were weak. I have had a good many doctors but none helped me. I got one of your little books, read it, bought one bottle of Syrup Pepsin to try. The very first bottle helped me and I have used three 50c bottles and feel like a new man. I can eat, sleep and work every day"—Rudy Kasner, No. 364 8th St., Moline, Ill.

"I am pleased to write and let you know that Syrup Pepsin is the greatest remedy on earth for all stomach troubles. I had bad stomach trouble for more than five or six years and I tried all kinds of medicines without their doing me any good, but now I use only your Syrup Pepsin and I feel like a new man. I eat anything I want and three square meals a day."—P. H. Gavelins, Wagoner, Okla.

UNDER THE CAPITOL DOME

"Red Buck" Discourses Most Interestingly on Things Great and Small at Washington—Some Characters He Has Met.

Washington, April 29.—Things are more settled now than they were two weeks ago. Democrats are gradual ly taking charge and Republicans are retiring. Elevator men we have known for years have disappeared and strangers are in their places. In other words, we have rung out the old and are ringing in the new. This is hard on the nerves of the busy newspaper man who goes to a gallop He must introduce himself all over again. Committee clerks do not loosen up when he calls, door keepers lay heavy hands upon him and other greenhorns take his valuable time.

But, after all is considered, we fare pretty well. There is lots of real amusement in watching the game go forward. The man with a funny bone will laugh more than he cries.

One day soon after I arrived here from Montana, I met a tall, thin, wrinkled man of sixty odd years. His hair was gray, his knees bent, and his step a bit infirm. Taking me for a new Congressman he gave me a card—one like the village livery man uses—bearing his name, his picture and a brief story of his ambition. About the corner of his mouth were tobacco stains and betwen his jaws a chew as large as a guinea egg.

"Where are you from," he inquired.

"Charlotte, North Carolina, and Missoula, Montana," said I.

"I have kinsmen there," he declared.

"Where?"

"Where you are from."

Soon I saw him approach a real congressman and give him his hand. He asked him where he was from and in return gave him a card and his pedigree. This old gentleman who had helped his party to success, wanted a place and put in his application for a $5,000 job. I met him every day, after giving me a card, he would inuire, "Where are you from," I would always answer "Charlotte, North Carolina, and Missoula, Montana."

He invariably replied "I have lots of kinsmen there." He does not know until this day that he wasted ten or twelve cards on me.

The House office building is built around a hollow circle and if one will walk clear around through one of the hall ways he will be tired. The news paper men speak of such a feat as "a mile beat." If two floors are covered it is "a two-mile beat," etc. Late one afternoon when rushing about the fourth floor, trying to find a Congressman, I met my old friend with the cards.

"Hey, young man, help me a little," he cried out. "I have been going around these drotted race tracks all day and I am lost. Would you mind telling me the way home."

"I live at Congress Hall hotel."

"See that button? Touch it, and elevator will ascend, you back in, get off at the first floor, turn to your right march out of the side door, and across the street, and you will be at your hotel."

"Thank you! Take one of my cards. Where are you from?"

"Charlotte, North Carolina, and Missoula, Montana."

This applicant did not land where he hoped to, but he has a $450 job, and is apparently satisfied.

Some of the new elevator men cluck to their cars as the Southern negro does to his mule, but they will be all right when they get used to city ways. Greenness will wear off with exeprience. Soon the new crop will be as easy going as the old one.

Republican Congressmen are glad of the shake up. They are eager to get rid of some of the antiquated employes that warmed chairs about the capitol. On their return to power, when the people tire of the Democrats, they will bring new men.

The Democratic retrenchments continue to give Congressmen and others concern. The other day a Southern Representative sent an order to the stationary room for some committee room supplies. Among other things he wanted a knife and a fountain pen. Chairman Lloyd of the Committee on Accounts sent the messenger to Mr. Carlin, Chairman of a sub-committee, who is acting retrencher. The Virginian took the list and went over it with a blue pencil.

"No knives," he said when he struck the knife, and "no fountain pens," when he came to the pen.

Not being satisfied with lopping off about $186,000 worth of pie the Democrats are not going to permit the donation of knives, razors and fountain pens. This is not considered a square deal when Senators get liver pills, tooth powder and shaving soaps.

But some of the new Congressmen, Democrats and Republicans, regulars and insurgents, stalwart and progressives, protectionists and free-traders, get something free they did not get back home—that is free baths. In the basement of the House Office building a most attractive bath room, provided with plunge, tub and shower fixtures, is at the service of the members. Having been out in the rain a long time some of the Democrats feel at home under a shower. Rubbers are employed to rub down the bathers. With the influx of Democratic negroes there has been some confusion in the bath house. Older members who have become fat, soft and tender in Washington, have protested against the employment and service of a number of the new darkies. The truth is, some of the objectionable negroes went from the livery stable to the baths. From currying mules is Missouri to rubbing statesmen in Washington is a far cry. It is said among the Missouri negroes here that Marse Champ Clark and Marse Jim Lloyd are looking after the colored Democrats of their districts in a most commendable way.

A Georgia Congressman went in the House Office barber shop—where the service is duty free—to get a shave. Seeing that the negro was a little nervous, that he stropped his razor on an old buggy trace, and used a rabbit tail for a lathering brush, and was politeness personified, he asked where he lived.

"Yes sir, boss, back in Missouri."

"How did you get here?"

"Me, Marster?"

"Yes, you."

"Marse Jim Lloyd focht me."

"A cose he did," said the Georgian, dropping into dialect.

I met a North Carolina darkey in the Capitol. He came here two years ago and I got him a place. I had not seen him since my departure for Montana last Summer. I noticed that instead of lifting his hat as he had been taught back in North Carolina, he just touched it. Resenting the change in manner toward me I backed him into a corner and demanded an explanation.

"What do you mean, nigger, by touching your hat to me? Why didn't you lift it?"

"Boss, don't buse me! It's dese Washington niggers. Dey don't lack for us to do dat Don't think hard of me! I lifts my hat to you in my heart. Yes sir, I des don't want dese Washington niggers to see me do it."

That explanation tells the story. That is Washington City. The imported negroes will soon "be from Missouri" to you in public places, but out of sight of the crowd they will be the same good negroes they were at home.

Lee Christian, a Tar Heel negro, landed on a job last week. Representative Page, one of the kindest men that ever lived, secured it for him and Lee is sincerely grateful. He had a pull on three North Carolina Congressmen but he pulled hardest on Mr. Page. He was born in Mr. Pages district; he once lived in Mr. Fou's; and his present home is in Major Stedman's. He has not voted in thirteen years, but to hear him tell it, he is one of the livest wires in Afro-American circles in the South.

It takes all sorts and conditions of men to make a world. They are here in great numbers.

Last Summer, before Congress adjourned, I rode up in a Senate elevator, conducted by a clever looking young man. I had seen him many times before. In January, when reporting the Montana Legislature at Helena, I saw the same man. He is now a lawyer in a Treasure State town. Many young men work their way through college in such places. Washington is full of them. Some of them will return as Congressmen.

MOTORING IN SPRING.

Twenty-Five Thousand Miles of Tours Mapped Out.

New York, April 29.—The most striking illustration of the belated Spring season as indicating the increasing enthusiasm on the part of motorists for long distance touring during the coming year was shown last week at the Touring Club of America, Broadway and 76th streets, New York, when in one day nine inquiries were made for tours ranging from 150 to 2,000 miles. The total mileage provided by the club for these tours agregated over twenty-five thousand and the various tours will take the respective motorists through twenty-three States, extending as far South as Georgia, West to Colorado and North to Maine.

While many inquiries nave been made for short trips to spend the week-end in some pleasant locality outside of the city, the club has never before been requested to compile so many big tours in a single day so early in the season. Two of the trips will cover from 1,500 to 2,000 miles respectively. A Philadelphia motorist was supplied with a route to Gettysburg, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis. R. G. Campbell, a Utica motorist had a trip mapped out from his home running westward to Buffalo thence through Pennsylvania to Frederick, Md., then to New York and finishing with a long detour around the New England coast to New London and Boston and thence across Massachusetts to Albany and back to Utica.

B. K. Boggs asked for a route over the best roads and including the finest scenery from New York to Cape Cod and thence along the coast northward to Portland, Maine; R. L. Waldeck had a tour arranged to the White Mountains with several interesting detours, and others who requested tours averaging several hundred miles each were G. W. Herzig, J. H. Judge, R. G. Turner, W. B. Driver and Emiline Roach.

MUTINY AMONG SOLDIERS.

Is Expected in China—Discontent and Anarchy.

Hong Kong, April 27.—A mutiny among the soldiers at Canton is expected to occur at almost any moment. Discontent and anarchy have prevailed there for a long time, and the soldiers are in a bad humor over the suppression of gambling. Thousands of residents of Canton field to Hong Kong yesterday, but they are finding meagre accommodations here.

A large number of soldiers will retire from the service in the next 24 hours, and officers with loaded guns have ben stationed on the city walls. Many houses have been searched and one of the leaders in the threatened rising has been arrested. Th officers distrust the soldiers and in many cases have removed the breach locks of their rifles.

Hong Kong, April 27.—The Yamen, or official residence of the Viceroy of Canton, was set on fire last night. The viceroy made his escape. Several persons were killed and some arrests were made. It is stated that the movement was promoted by an anarchist society. Great excitement prevailed and the gates of the city were ordered closed.

The situation in Canton is considered very serious and the British consul there has wired to Sir Frederick Lugard, the governor of Honk Kong to stop all British vessels from coming to Canton for 24 hours, owing to the dangerous conditions.

IN SOUTHWEST TEXAS.

Scenery is Beautiful, as Well as Land Highly Productive.

San Antonio, Tex., April 29.—Much has been said and written of the productions of the soil of southwest Texas from a commercial point of view. Less utilitarian, but even more wonderful, are the gifts of the fields and prairies fro man artistic viewpoint. To one who, for the first time, sees a Texas prairie in spring attire, the experience is almost intoxicating. The marketable products are in response to man's care—skillful tillage and irrigation coax the money-bringing growths from the earta, but the wealth and riot of color of the prairie flowers are the generous gifts of Mother Nature to all who will accept them.

To the tourist from the less favored portions of the country the acres upon acres of flowers stretching away into the distance, the fern-like huisache trees, the ratamas, like small pines suddenly laying aside their sober garb and bursting into a mass of golden bloom, the mesquite with its dainty pendent catkins, the innumerable varieties of cacti with their vivid blooms of crimson or gold, seems an illusion, for all combine to make a picture the most skilled artist could never copy. The name of these flowers is legion—primroses, white, pink and yellow; blue bonnets, verbenas, phloxes, nettles, coreopsis and innumerable others all mingle in an indescribable panorama of color, with never a discordant note. The soldiers at Fort Sam Houston find compensation for the discomforts of camp life in the view stretching away from the post in every direction—on one side to the foot hills of the Rockies in the distance.

The offering of the prairies in shadow or sunshine is an unending play of color, from the almost black purples of the stems and trunks of the chapparal growths, through every shade and tint of blues, pinks, yellows and greens to the soft creams and whites which defy an artist's brush. Over the whole stretches the wonderful sky, generally of brilliant cobalt—but whether unclouded or misty, brilliant in effect and changing ever. Lowell must have had visions of southwest Texas when he wrote "'Tis heaven alone that is given away."

MEXICO MAKES PROTEST.

Against Recent Action of Captain of British Sloop.

London, April 26.—The Mexican government has communicated to the British foreign office a formal protest against the action of Captain Vivian, of the British sloop Shearwater, in landing marines at San Quintin, lower California, which action is described as an interference in the internal affairs of Mexico.

Announcement in this effect was made in a very brief dispatch received at the foreign office today from T. B. Hohler, British charge d'affaires at Mexico City since the departure of Minister Tower.

Mexico City, April 26.—Mexico does not anticipate any unpleasantness as a result of the note sent by the foreign office to Great Britain regarding the Shearwater incident. Senor De LaBarra says that the note was couched in cordial and friendly terms, but that a protest was made that the rights of Mexico were maintained. It is expected that the incident will be satisfactorily explained by Great Britain.
